

Death Claims Harry Truman

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Harry S. Truman died today, conquered finally by the infirmities of age.

The nation's 33rd president died at 8:50 a.m. EST. His wife and daughter were notified at their home.

The hospital attributed death to the "complexity of organic failures causing a collapse of the cardiovascular system."

Truman entered the hospital three weeks ago today and had been in a coma since early Saturday.

As his condition worsened Christmas Day, Truman's daughter, Margaret Truman Daniel, returned from her home in New York. She saw him for about 20 minutes Monday night.

Death came quietly to the former president. Dr. Wallace Graham, his physician from the White House days, was at his side.

A family spokesman, Randall

Jessee, said the 87-year-old Mrs. Truman stood up well to the announcement.

The former president will lie in state for 24 hours, beginning Wednesday at noon EST, in the rotunda of the library that houses the memorabilia of the Truman presidency. Burial will be at 4 p.m. EST Thursday at a spot on the library grounds visible from the window of Truman's long-time office.

Truman had been vice president for only 82 days in the closing days of World War II, when he became president on the death of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

During his eight years in the world's most powerful post, Truman set the United States against global communism, aiding countries that were threatened by the threat of Russian domination.

One of the most momentous acts of his presidency was to order the dropping of the atomic bomb on Hiroshima.

He returned to the solitude of the family home in Independence, spending the first decade after leaving the White House by lecturing on college campuses.

He was 60 years old when he became president and was 68 when he left the capital in January 1953.

His death leaves Lyndon B. Johnson as the nation's only living former president. As Truman took office, the Soviet Union already was breaking agreements that had been reached only months before at Yalta in a meeting of the heads of state of the United States, Russia and Great Britain.

It fell to Truman, in the early months, to make what he called his most agonizing decision — whether to use the newly perfected atomic bomb on Japan. Two bombs were dropped at his direction, on the cities of Hiroshima and Nagasaki, and Japan surrendered shortly afterward.

Truman said use of the bomb possibly saved a million American lives.

When it became apparent that Greece and Turkey would fall to the Communists, Truman convinced Congress to order military and economic aid for the two beleaguered nations, the first such use of American funds.

Later, through the Marshall Plan — named for Gen. George Marshall, then secretary of state — the aid was extended to other European nations.

Winston Churchill, Britain's prime minister, credited Truman with single-handedly saving Europe through those actions.

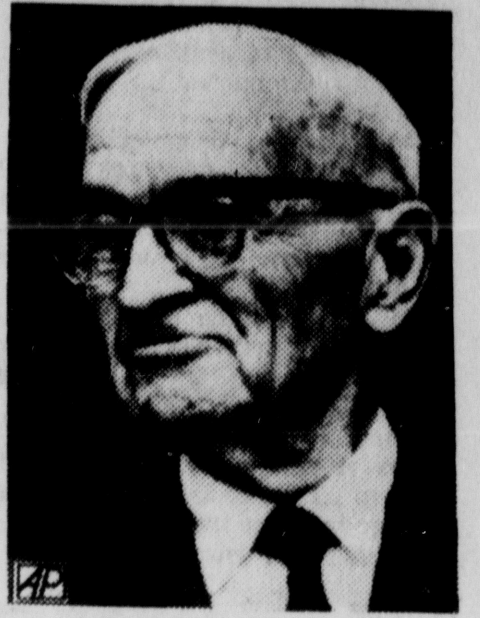

With the end of World War II, that facet of his personality was brought into play often, as the nation converted from a war economy to peace. He used the powers of the presidency to the fullest, to stop strikes that he believed were against the national interest.

Jessee told newsmen after the announcement of death that Mrs. Truman's "loyalty and devotion were fabulous. The vigil was a very trying thing for her physically."

The former president will be buried in the courtyard of the library, an imposing limestone structure less than a mile from his home.

President Nixon was expected to declare a state funeral and preliminary plans are for him to attend the service.

A memorial service is planned at the Washington National Cathedral.

DEMOLISHED — Wreckage of a car driven by Terry B. House, 19, 235 Sherwood Drive, is pictured where it came to rest in Hargus Creek off Griest Rd. 8:50 p.m. Saturday.

Sheriff's Deputies said the car left the road, flew through the air, hit a tree and bounced back to this position. House died enroute to Berger Hospital.

Terry House Killed In Saturday Wreck

Terry B. House, 19, 235 Sherwood Drive, was dead on arrival at Berger Hospital 8:20 p.m. Saturday, 30 minutes after a grinding, single car auto accident on Griest Rd., a mile and a half north of Route 22.

According to Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff Don Thompson, a passing motorist saw a mail box laying in the road and checked for damage. He spotted a headlight on House's car, a 1971 Comet GT, which was demolished in Hargus Creek about 200 feet from the road.

House was taken from the car by rescue workers, but died enroute to the hospital.

Deputy Thompson said House was driving south on narrow Griest Rd. when he crested a hill and apparently went left of center, leaving skid marks for 110 feet. The car whipped back across to the right side of the road and left the paved surface for 47 feet where it hit a mailbox owned by Harold Youn. Route 1, Stoutsville.

The car traveled straight for 12 more feet, hit an embankment, flew through the air for 79 feet and down a 20 foot drop before dropping in the creek bed. The car continued on through the creek, hit the base of a large tree, and was knocked backwards 32 feet.

Pickaway County Sheriff Dwight Radcliff and auxiliary deputy Nelson Embrey assisted in the investigation, which listed excessive speed, reckless operation and drinking as contributing circumstances in the crash.

House was born April 19, 1953, in Columbus, the son of Andrew and Clara Belle Henderson House.

Survivors include one sister, Deborah Rachel; maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Dillie, Laurelville; Mrs. Bessie Snyder, Webster Spring, W. Va.; paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert McDonald, Columbus.

He attended Circleville High School and was employed at the Columbus Auto Parts Warehouse.

Services will be 2 p.m. Thursday in the Laurelville Church of God with the Rev. Lynn Summers officiating. Burial will be in Green Summit Cemetery, Adelphi.

Friends may call at the Hill Funeral Home, Kingston, after 4 p.m. Tuesday and at the church 12:30 p.m. Thursday.

June M. Timmons, 25, Route 2, Ashville, refused treatment for a leg bruise after she demolished her car on the Circleville - Commercial Point Rd. near the C. and O. railroad overpass 5:10 p.m. Sunday.

Deputy Thompson said she was driving north and attempting to pass through a right curve when the car went off the right berm. She lost control of the car, spinning it around where it rolled on its top.

Grim Yule In Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—It was a grim Christmas on Cleveland's crime front, with one slaying reported on Christmas and three the day before, according to Cleveland police.

Two small West Side children were strangled with a diaper, a 20-year-old former Marine was shot to death in his home and a 79-year-old woman was stabbed to death.

Police said Nan Mullan, 24, was being held in the deaths of her two children, one 2 years old and the other 4 months, and was expected to face formal charges sometime Tuesday.

She had been taken into custody Sunday after police said she phoned them and reported the deaths.

Holiday Truce Ends; Bombing Is Resumed

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. B52 bombers and fighter-bombers resumed attacks on the Hanoi and Haiphong areas of North Vietnam today after a 36-hour bombing halt for Christmas, the U.S. Command announced.

The Command also reported that American air strikes had been resumed across South Vietnam at dusk Monday following a 24-hour cease-fire.

The Command made no comment on air operations in Laos, but other U.S. officials said they had continued through Christmas with no apparent letup.

The Command did not explain why the bombing halt in the North lasted longer than the cease-fire in the South. Nor would it say whether the attack was resumed on the massive scale employed last week, when the raids were the heaviest of the war.

U.S. officials had indicated earlier that the bombing halt over North Vietnam had been planned for 24 hours and had been extended on an hour-to-hour basis while President Nixon awaited some sign from Hanoi that it was ready to agree to his peace terms.

A statement by Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin touched off speculation that he might have been in touch with Nixon. Tass, the Soviet news agency, reported that Kosygin told Ambassador Vo Thuc Dong of North Vietnam that the Soviet government expects immediate termination of the bombing and signing of a cease-fire agreement. But observers in Moscow interpreted Kosygin's remarks as an expression of desire rather than a prediction.

The roadblock to a peace agreement has been the U.S. demand that Hanoi recognize two separate states in Vietnam, retreating from the concept of unification promised in the 1954 Geneva Agreement that ended the French Indochina War.

The U.S. Command refused all comment on the bombing cessation, which other officials said began before midnight Sunday as part of the allied cease-fire for Christmas.

Radio Hanoi has reported no air attacks after Sunday night but said today that U.S. B52 bombers destroyed the Bac Thai provincial hospital and sanatorium north of Hanoi in "concentrated" bombing raids on Christmas Eve.

The broadcast claimed the towns of Thai Nguyen, Ha Bac and Lang Son also were bombed on Dec. 24, and the raiders "killed and wounded a great many civilians, including Catholic people who were celebrating Christmas services." Lang Son is just below the Chinese border.

Hanoi claimed that it shot down another B52 during the attack on Bac Thai but made no mention of what happened to the six crewmen.

It was the 18th B52—and the 53rd U.S. warplane—claimed by North Vietnam since U.S. bombing of the Hanoi-Haiphong area and other targets north of the 20th parallel was resumed on Dec. 18.

The U.S. Command has acknowledged the loss of 18 planes, including 11 B52s, and at least 70 airmen are missing.

Women Seek Equal Credit Treatment

By LYNNE OLSON
Associated Press Writer

Women who claim they've been denied credit because of their sex are becoming increasingly militant in demanding equal rights to credit cards and loans.

In response, a number of major stores, credit card companies and banks say they are changing or clarifying their credit policies, and some creditors are actively pursuing the business of women.

"A year ago, women just accepted discrimination without question," said Carole De Saram of the National Organization of Women.

"Now they're no longer taking it. They're asking, 'What do you mean I can't have a loan or credit?' Hundreds of women—and even some husbands—are up in arms."

"There's been an enormous increase in the number of women demanding equal access to credit," said Barbara Shack, assistant director of the New York Civil Liberties Union. "Women are much more militant, and it's having an effect on retailers and lenders."

Ruth Holstein, executive director of the National Commission on Consumer Finance, said the increased protests stem from widespread national publicity about the commission's hearings last spring on the subject of women and credit.

Witnesses, including several congresswomen and Women's Bureau Director Elizabeth Koontz, told of single women with good incomes who suddenly had their credit accounts closed when they married. They were told they had to reapply in their husbands' name, in the process losing their own credit ratings.

There were instances of widows and divorcees whose credit accounts were canceled when their marriages ended because the credit belonged to the husband.

Also described were working wives whose earnings were not counted toward eligibility for mortgage loans and single, divorced and widowed women with substantial incomes who had to have male cosigners before getting loans.

Several women's rights organizations, including NOW, the Women's Equity Action League (WEAL) and the Women's Lobby, say they're planning stepped-up fights against sex discrimination in credit.

NOW will mount an "organized and concerted" national campaign in 1973, which may include demonstrations and boycotts, said Lynne Litwiler, head of NOW's task force on taxes, credit and finance.

Miss De Saram says she's received more than 100 requests from individuals and organizations throughout the nation for advice on how to organize groups to protest discrimination and work for equality in credit.

One of the requests came from the Atlanta YWCA, which plans an extensive investigation of credit practices in Atlanta and eventually a permanent task force on credit.

The Dallas chapter of WEAL just completed an investigation of Dallas creditors and will urge stores and banks to make credit policy changes as a result.

Most creditors insist they do not deliberately discriminate and their only criterion for extending credit is the ability of the applicant to pay.

Retailers say it's more convenient and less costly for them to have a married woman's account in her husband's name. Lenders say they're wary of counting a wife's income for loans because she may quit her job, in many cases to have a baby.

There are signs that the protests are having some effect.

A subcommittee on credit for the National Business Council for Consumer Affairs acknowledged last month in its report:

"Discrimination against women in credit granting systems can be subtle, but serious, as shown in recent hearings on the subject by the National Commission on Consumer Finance."

The council recommended that "consumer credit granting criteria should be the same for men and women. When they meet these criteria, married women who so request should be granted credit in their own name."

Members of the subcommittee included top officials of J.C. Penney's, American Express, Household Finance Corp., First National City Bank and Bank of America.

John E. Patterson, credit manager for Franklin Simon, a New York clothing store chain, said retailers are beginning to "show an awareness of their lack of recognition of women in the granting of credit."

"Many major stores have already changed their policies toward women," Patterson said. "They have to—in order to compete. It's a simple matter of dollars and cents. We need the business of women."

Franklin Simon, like a number of other stores across the nation, recently changed its application form to one that uses the terms "applicant" and "spouse," allowing for use by either sex, rather than asking for information on husband and wife.

Gilchrist department store in Boston recently issued a special Ms. application blank for women who want a card based strictly on their own credit ratings. There are no questions about spouse or husband.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices clung to narrow gains today, in spite of prime rate increases by major banks and the resumption of U.S. bombing in North Vietnam.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up 0.98 to 1005.19. On the New York Stock Exchange, advances held a 602-to-521 lead over declines, with 1,495 issues exchanged in quiet trading.

Brokers said the red-hot pace of machine tool orders in November and record car sales in mid-December were both positive signs.

The New York Stock Exchange Index of some 1,400 common stocks was up 0.17 to 63.55, while the price change index at the American Stock Exchange was down 0.01 to 26.24.

Fire Guts Weldon Ave. Home Christmas Day

A fire early Christmas morning left a family without a home and destroyed their personal belongings.

The alarm came at 7:45 Monday morning to the residence of Mrs. Darlene Smith, 369 Weldon Ave., Circleville firemen battled the blaze for 35 minutes, but not before it had heavily damaged the small home.

Mrs. Smith told firemen she had been asleep in the bedroom when she awoke and noticed the fire in the living room. She managed to escape the house with her three children, age 2, 3 and 7.

Candidates, Committees File Election Expenses

Two candidates and a citizen's committee listed no receipts or expenditures in campaigning for the Nov. 7 general election, according to figures released Friday by the Pickaway County Board of Elections. The candidates were Dr. Ray Carroll, county coroner, and Henry McCrady, county engineer, and the committee was Citizens for Schools, John Little, chairman.

The County Republican Party showed receipts of $790.93 and expenditures of $186.70 from a fund raising fish fry for that party's candidates. They also received $3,728.91 in donations and spent $2,645.36.

The Democratic Executive Committee received $1,315 and spent $2,389.70. The Democrats Women's Club spent $257.92 to print sample ballots and collected $102.

The Committee for the Repeal of Issue 2, sponsored by the Westfall Education Assoc., received and spent $30. The Teays Valley Citizens Committee received $339 and spent $336.46. The Association for Retarded Children received and spent $62.

Commissioner-elect L. Robert Liston spent $575 and received $125. A committee for his election, Don Rose chairman, raised and spent $574.15.

His opponent, Charles Morris, spent $566.50. A committee for him, with Robert Hinton as chairman, raised and spent $255. And a committee for Morris, Bill Stout, chairman, shows $99 in expenditures.

All other candidates show no receipts. Richard Gerhardt had expenditures of $29.80; Dwight Radcliff had expenditures of $52.80; Sarah Dresbach had expenditures of $114.20; Guy Cline had expenditures of $234.20; Bob Wood had expenditures of $63.20; Hazel Yeatts had expenditures of $12.80 and Dick Tootle had expenditures of $62.40.

Fuel Supply End Near?

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (AP) — The new director of research at U.S. Bureau of Mines Energy Research Center here says oil and g. fuels will last only about 12 more years, and he will direct the efforts of his facility toward making coal more suitable as a replacement fuel.

"The only fuel we can turn to that will carry us through the next 20-30 years is coal," says William E. Eckard. "It's the only one we have enough of."

"Nuclear fusion, which is the only real solution to the energy crisis, will not be available for at least 30 years." Eckard says the petroleum industry leads the energy industries with advanced research, "getting the most from what's there," and he will try to apply some techniques developed by oil and gas researchers to coal research.

Eckard, transferred from the Bureau's Alaskan Field Operation Center Headquarters, says he sees the role of research director as "working with expert personnel, finding projects which satisfy both the persons doing the research, and the thrust now desired by Washington."

Brotherhood Shines Out

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— One Jewish Cleveland area family found a way to participate in Christmas this year—and they hope their idea will spread.

Dr. Allan Rolfe, his wife and two daughters volunteered to work at Euclid General Hospital Monday so that Christian employees could spend the day with their families.

Rolfe, a Pepper Pike whose office is in Euclid, said he thought of the plan because during World War II it had been customary for Jewish soldiers to volunteer for Christmas duty.

"That was 20 years ago, but I decided it would be a good custom for me to start again," he said.

During the day Rolfe, his wife and his 16- and 20-year-old daughters ended up delivering mail, working on the switchboard, helping in the kitchen and feeding elderly patients.

"It's really been a nice experience," said Mrs. Rolfe afterwards.

"A lot of people talk about good will at this time of year but really do very little about it," said Rolfe. "I decided this would be a good way."

Smoke, Not Fire, Coming From Car

A passing motorist, noticing smoke coming from an automobile on Route 23, north of Circleville, notified the Circleville Fire Department force, who discovered the "smoke" was actually steam coming from a busted radiator hose.

The 1962 model car was owned by Bernice Martin, of Columbus. Firemen answered the call at 1:12 p.m. Monday.

E. F. Reichelderfer Honored By Memorial School Awards

Recipients of the first E. F. Reichelderfer Memorial Awards have been announced in Columbus City Schools.

The awards, made for excellence in counseling, bear the name of Elliott Reichelderfer, who served as the school system's director of child study and student counseling from 1958 to 1965.

Reichelderfer was the son of Mrs. Blanche Reichelderfer of Route 4.

In addition to providing leadership to the growth of the school system's guidance and counseling program, Reichelderfer was rated as a master counselor by many of his associates.

The awards in his name will be presented annually to three coun-

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices clung to narrow gains today, in spite of prime rate increases by major banks and the resumption of U.S. bombing in North Vietnam.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up 0.98 to 1005.19. On the New York Stock Exchange, advances held a 602-to-521 lead over declines, with 1,495 issues exchanged in quiet trading.

Brokers said the red-hot pace of machine tool orders in November and record car sales in mid-December were both positive signs.

The New York Stock Exchange Index of some 1,400 common stocks was up 0.17 to 63.55, while the price change index at the American Stock Exchange was down 0.01 to 26.24.

Mrs. Smith told firemen she had been asleep in the bedroom when she awoke and noticed the fire in the living room. She managed to escape the house with her three children, age 2, 3 and 7.

None of the children were injured, but Mrs. Smith was treated at Berger Hospital for first and second degree burns to her right hand.

Cause of the fire has not yet been determined, but the fire force reports it caused some $450 damage to the building alone and an additional $750 loss on contents.

Pickaway County Red Cross is appealing for aid for the family. Donations of furniture and appliances are sought in addition to clothing for the woman, size 14, and children, boys sizes 4 and 7.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Practical Joker 'Dies' Laughing Too Often

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a practical joker. Before I realized what a nut he was, I nearly had a couple of heart attacks. When we were married a short time, we had our first argument and I stormed out of the house to go to the grocery store. When I came home I found him all sprawled out on the kitchen floor with the dog's leash around his neck. His eyes were rolled back and his tongue was hanging out as though he had hanged himself. When I screamed and fell on him, he got up-laughing! (I didn't speak to him for two days).

Again (after another disagreement), he put a lot of pillows in our bed and covered them in the shape of a man.

Then he poured some catsup on top of it to look like blood, and in the middle of the man he stuck a butcher knife. When I walked in and saw it I nearly fainted, then my husband came out of the closet laughing!

Tell me, do I have a poor sense of humor, or should this man be locked up?

LENNY'S WIFE
DEAR WIFE: I see nothing wrong with your sense of humor, but you husband is obviously using these little jokes to punish you.

DEAR ABBY: A doctor's home is about to be broken up by a little homewrecker who is on her third try for a doctor. I know, because my husband was one of the doctors she tried to get.

She is a nurse and my husband confessed to me that he had succumbed to her charms a few times last summer while I was out of town.

This woman nearly broke up a 30-year-marriage a few years ago when she and her boss (a doctor old enough to be her father) got into an automobile accident. He claimed he was taking her home, but the accident occurred miles out in the country.

Now this woman has been slipping around with a young doctor whose wife isn't aware of what's going on, and nobody wants to tell her. There are small children involved.

I told my husband I think I should tip off his wife. He says I should mind my own business. What should I do?

KENTUCKY CHICNE
DEAR CHICKEN: I'd buy my husband's prescription.

DEAR ABBY: We have a son who will be 8 years old soon. Almost all his friends have bicycles, and Jeff wants one very much. Jeff is a nail biter, and we have told him he could not have a bike until he quits biting his nails and the day I had to cut his nails for him I would let him pick out any bike he wanted.

Today I got a letter from my parents saying they bought a bike for Jeff's birthday! I am not positive, but I feel certain they knew of our deal with Jeff.

If we do let my parents give Jeff the bike, what about our deal with him? Our pediatrician says not to make too much of Jeff's nail biting-it's just a nervous habit, and we should be glad it's not something worse.

What is your opinion?

TEXAS PROBLEM
DEAR PROBLEM: If you parents knew of your deal with Jeff, shame on them. In any case, tell them about the deal and insist on their cooperation. And, in the future, take your pediatrician's advice. In addition to Jeff's "nervous habit" of nail biting, he could develop a feeling of unworthiness, guilt, and shame, which would compound his problem.

Evans Plans Visit To His Home State

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — Apollo 17 astronaut Ronald E. Evans plans to visit his home state of Kansas in February.

The Navy captain, who remained in moon orbit in the command ship America while fellow Apollo 17 astronauts Eugene A. Cernan and Harrison H. Schmitt explored the lunar surface during the just completed Apollo 17 mission, is a former resident of St. Francis and Topeka, Kan. He is also a graduate of the University of Kansas.

Interfaith Group Attacks Bombing

NEW YORK (AP) — "Promised a generation of peace, we have experienced not even one day of peace," a nationwide interfaith group of 41 religious leaders has declared in an unprecedented "pastoral letter."

Their reaction to the renewed bombing of North Vietnam was disclosed Friday in a message accusing the Nixon administration of "aborting the possibility and betraying the duty of peace."

Using such phrases as "vindictive barbarity," "unspeakable assault," "moral abyss" and "new horrors," the clergymen demanded that the government end the bombing and sign a peace agreement.

Miller Fires 20 Members

WASHINGTON (AP) — Saying "coal miners have been pushed around by dictators long enough," the new president of the United Mine Workers Union has asserted his power quickly by firing 20 union board members and temporarily replacing them with his own supporters.

Arnold Miller, who defeated W. A. "Tony" Boyle in a Labor Department-supervised election for the presidency, said Friday the ousted board members had been illegally appointed by Boyle through trusteeships over 20 of the UMW's 23 districts around the nation.

Edward L. Carey, the union's general counsel, and Boyle's special assistant, Suzanne Richards, were also swept out by Miller.

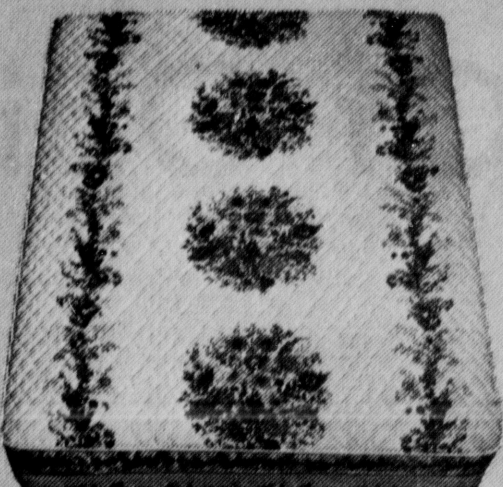

"We could not stand by and let a little group of selfish men maintain the kind of grip on our union that we fought so long to break," Miller said.

Miller, whose election victory was formally approved by a federal judge earlier Friday, appointed 20 "prominent rand-and-file" union members to the executive board pending new district elections.

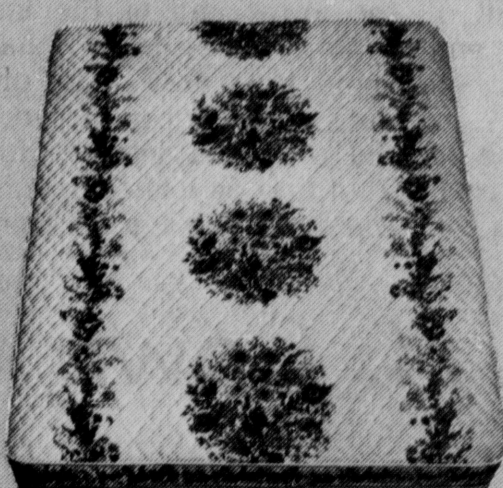

As several hundred coal miners, mostly from his home state of West Virginia, cheered and sang, "For He's A Jolly Good Fellow," Miller, 49, took the oath as UMW president at the union's headquarters here.

"This place will be open to you," said Miller, himself a former miner who suffers from "black lung" disease.

Present for the swearing-in ceremony was Joseph A. "Chip" Yablonski, son of labor leader Joseph Yablonski, who was shot to death with his wife and daughter in their Clarksburg, Pa., home several weeks after losing the 1969 election to Boyle. A federal judge ordered another election after finding that Boyle's victory over Yablonski was marred by widespread vote fraud.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Practical Joker 'Dies' Laughing Too Often

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a practical joker. Before I realized what a nut he was, I nearly had a couple of heart attacks. When we were married a short time, we had our first argument and I stormed out of the house to go to the grocery store. When I came home I found him all sprawled out on the kitchen floor with the dog's leash around his neck. His eyes were rolled back and his tongue was hanging out as though he had hanged himself. When I screamed and fell on him, he got up laughing! (I didn't speak to him for two days).

Again (after another disagreement), he put a lot of pillows in our bed and covered them in the shape of a man.

A Page Of Opinion

Initial Complaint

The 93rd Congress may no sooner be settled in its seats in January before it begins hearing from its constituency on a matter of some concern. The subject is taxes, and many individuals may not yet be aware of how much more they will pay in federal taxes after January 1.

But federal taxes are not going up next year, you say? Yes they are, but not under income tax tables. Social Security taxes are increasing in 1973—and 1974 also. Further, the rate of increase is accelerating.

In 1971, the most anyone paid in Social Security taxes was $811. By 1974, it will be $1,324. A family in which two persons pay the maximum would have a Social Security tax bill of more than $2,600, with employer's contributions included.

Some taxpayers hold a mythical view of the Social Security system, believing the funds they contributed in payroll taxes are placed in an account to be drawn under their names at a later date. That is not the case. Yesterday's retirees are paid from the tax revenue produced today.

Social Security tax rates at the lower end of the income scale are now higher than income tax rates, with projections of still more increases in the rate well into the future. That first paycheck in January could produce a groan from the nation's work force audible all the way to Washington.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Tuesday, Dec. 26, the 361st day of 1972. There are five days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
On this date in 1776, George Washington's troops captured 1,000 Hessians in the Revolutionary War Battle of Trenton, N.J.

On this date: In 1805, the Peace of Pressburg was signed by Napoleon Bonaparte and the Emperor of Austria.

In 1827, Sultan Mahmud II of Turkey rejected the right of allies to mediate in a war with Greece.

In 1865, James Nason of Franklin, Mass. was granted a patent for the first coffee percolator in the United States.

In 1917, in World War I, the U.S. government took over operation of the nation's railroads.

In 1941, early in the Pacific war, the United States declared the Philippine capital of Manila an open city.

In 1943, a British destroyer sank the German battleship Scharnhorst off the coast of Norway.

Ten years ago: Eight refugees from deep inside East Germany made a dramatic escape to West Berlin by crashing a bus through barriers at a border checkpoint.

Five years ago: U.S. planes struck hard at supply convoys in North Vietnam after a Christmas truce ended.

One year ago: Sixteen veterans of the Vietnam war seized control of the Statue of Liberty in New York to dramatize their antiwar stand.

Today's birthdays: entertainer Steve Allen is 51 years old. Writer Henry Miller is 81.

Thought for today: That man is richest whose pleasures are the cheapest — Henry David Thoreau, American writer, 1817-1862.

"Confidentially, it's a wig."

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

All through college I was irritable, fretful, and often even aggressive. I was labeled a "nut."

I was sent to the school psychologist, and later to a psychiatrist. They gave me a great deal of insight into my problems and made it possible for me to live with myself and with others.

It was not until I returned home to a small, mid-Western community that our family doctor found that there was a physical basis for my behavior problems.

Do you think that this is often overlooked when people behave as I did?

Miss G.F., III.

Dear Miss F.:
Your frank and forthright letter highlights a few areas in medicine that deserve elaboration.

Again, I would like to point out that the family physician forms the concrete support of the total structure of modern medicine. It is often he who unravels the physical, the psychological, and the social aspects of illness and evaluates them.

When there is a need for more intensive investigation he seeks the opinion of a specialist in a more concentrated field of medicine. After all findings are laid out, the blueprint of these studies very often provide the answer, as in your case, to a complex problem.

The concept of psychosomatic disease has rightfully flourished in the past 50 years. It is now accepted that all physical problems have some associated emotional overtones.

This is the basis for psychosomatic understanding. The mind (psyche) and the soma (body) are one. They are completely intertwined in good health and in illness.

Similarly, there is a somato-psyche involvement where the body functions affect the mind and behavior patterns. This is what may have occurred to you. Hidden endocrine or hormone disturbances can produce abnormal behavior patterns.

For years it has been known that an overactive thyroid, for example, can produce restlessness, irritability, insomnia, palpitations, and even cause behavioral aberrations. Fatigue, restlessness, poor attention spans, and explosive anger are not uncommon with this condition.

Similarly, disorders of the adrenal gland are known to have been the cause of so-called "paranoid" and even "psychotic" behavior.

Low blood sugar, mineral deficiencies have been found to explain so-called "delusional" episodes that mark a person as socially inadequate.

One of the most famous cases in American medicine was actually uncovered in an insane asylum by Dr. Harvey Cushing. Since then, "Cushing's Disease," which is a physical disorder that affects the adrenal gland, is known to be responsible for severe depression, and even mania, in addition to the physical symptoms.

Before anyone is labeled as a strange neurotic personality every conceivable test must be made to be sure that a physical disorder is not the real culprit.

Cutting The U. N. Down

By JEFFREY HART

Iconoclasts will love it, sentimentalist will hate it, but there can scarcely be any doubt about it: through a rather amusing manipulation of symbols, the Nixon Administration is clearly letting the UN know that as far as the White House is concerned the curious institution at Turtle Bay is not the last best hope of mankind.

First, there was the matter of the reduction in the U.S. financial contribution. The amount involved was small, but the signal given was large enough.

And now we have the Bush-Scali

ploy, George Bush taking over as chairman of the Republican National Committee, and John Scali moving in as UN Ambassador. Given that particular signal, one is almost tempted to say that President Nixon promoted Bush when he moved him to the National Committee. Scali, a former TV reporter and more recently a White House aide, is an estimable enough fellow, but he has little independent political stature. The appointment admirably defines the White House attitude toward the international organization.

Though realists have never considered the UN a potential Parliament of Man or nascent World Government, the organization originally was sold to the American people with an evangelical fervor that raised all sorts of hopes and made it something of a sacred cow. No American politician, in public anyway, attacks the UN. But evangelical faith in the U.N. rests on some very dubious assumptions indeed: that the institutions and practices of a few parliamentary democracies can be applied to international relations among highly various nations and peoples; that, since we have evolved toward one-man, one-vote in such democracies, the world, i.e., the General Assembly, should be conducted on the basis of one-nation, one-vote; that through such a mechanism, reason will supersede both force and its velvet glove, diplomacy, in international relations. All of this rests on a belief in the inherent benevolence and rationality of The People, the Family of Man as it is sometimes called, who will harken to the voice of reason and transcend narrow faction and local interest.

One is tempted to say: If you believe that, you can believe anything. And as a matter of fact, even the Truman Administration, under which the UN emerged, was determined — whatever it said in its public utterances — to keep the UN firmly in its place. When President Truman turned to Edward Stettinius as our first UN Representative, Stettinius wanted a seat in the Cabinet and therefore something like equivalent rank with the Secretary of State. Nothing doing, said Truman and Acheson. The post began as a simple ambassadorship, reporting through and instructed by the Secretary of State.

Its aggrandizement as a Cabinet post occurred almost by accident under President Eisenhower. Henry Cabot Lodge had been one of Ike's earliest backers for the Presidency, beating the drum here while the general was still in Europe as Commander-in-Chief at NATO. The UN ambassadorship was made a Cabinet post to gratify Lodge.

But this did not reflect its actual unimportance. John F. Kennedy regarded it as the perfect spot to which to retire Adlai Stevenson; even Dag Hammarskjöld regarded the UN as, at best, an adjunct to diplomacy. But now this modest function has been vastly impaired by the proliferation of pseudo-nations and the demagoguery of their representatives in the General Assembly.

Of all Presidents since 1945, Richard Nixon is the one most at home in traditional and, yes, secret diplomacy; and, therefore, we have come full circle, from Edward Stettinius to John Scali.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — As you peer at the busted toys and broken budgets — uptight, hung over and suffering the guilt of financial and sensual excess — take heart. Maybe it isn't all that bad.

The year may have culminated in a buying orgy, but it followed months of stern discipline that put retailers to the test. It was a year of consumer selectivity, and a year in which they asserted their rights, options, opinions.

As the consumer analysts say, it isn't just what the consumer has in his pocket that determines how much is sold. Attitude counts too. The consumer isn't entirely predictable. He's wiser; he makes his own decisions.

Check with some resort operators and they'll probably tell you that the days of the free spenders and lavish tippers are over, for the time being anyway. People may have money to spend, but they look at the price tags.

They are, in fact, spending more at resorts and on cruises than ever before. But if you think they aren't demanding more, try counting all the discounts being offered. The onepiece days are gone.

It was a good year for automobiles, but if you check you'll find that imports accounted for about 15 per cent of the market, despite the dollar devaluation that put them at a disadvantage.

One explanation being offered is that most of the imports were low-priced editions, and that the big attraction for them remained those relatively low price tags.

People clearly are exercising judgment in spending. While personal income rose 4 per cent this year, consumers didn't spend that money evenly. In fact, some of it went upst.

associations soared to $33 billion, a 19 per cent oneyear increase in total deposits, capped by a gain of $3.6 billion in December alone — right in the midst of the Christmas selling season.

But look at what happened to the stock market and mutual funds. Small investors refrained from committing themselves heavily to stocks. Week after week they sold more than they bought.

Redemptions of mutual funds presented serious problems for that industry, which was built on small investments and too often on big promises. Many once enthusiastic fund investors soured on fund management.

In summary, the consumer exercised his will and his judgement many times during the year, even though today he might feel that he succumbed in the final month to an old spending habit.

If you are among them, look at it this way: You were entitled to a little indiscriminate spending. And the merchant was entitled to the same.

Lawyer's Client

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — "Call it poetic justice if you will," said the Albuquerque lawyer whose client's home was burglarized.

Defense lawyer John Carmody said the home of Willie Barrera Blanco, 25, was entered recently while the owner was away.

Blanco was unable to stay home and protect his property, Carmody explained, because he was being held in the Bernalillo County Jail here after pleading guilty to burglary.

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks you always hear the day after Christmas: "Daddy, can you fix my new doll? She just broke her head."

"I'm going to put a beartrap in the fireplace — just in case that fat rascal tries to come down our chimney again tonight."

"Just think: we have only 364 days left to enjoy before we have to go through it all again."

"Somehow it didn't seem right to have Christmas fall on a Monday. What is there to celebrate on a Monday?"

"Christmas is getting to be a year-round industry. It takes six months to get ready for Santa Claus and six months to clean up after he has gone."

"Well, I wanted nothing much for Christmas — and that's exactly what I got."

"Daddy, all the air just went out of my bicycle tire. Can you fix it for me?"

"Right after Mr. Santa Claus leaves with his, 'Ho, Ho, Ho!' in comes Mr. January crying, 'Woe, Woe, Woe.'"

"I really don't mind getting bills so much. What I hate is to have to pay them."

"I'll admit that the brown and cerise tie your Aunt Agatha gave you belongs in a chamber of horrors, but at least you can wear it to church. Nobody in church is supposed to notice what you have on."

"I think we can dispose of the turkey in time, but what in the world can one do with a gallon of leftover eggnog? The mere sight of it makes me feel ghastly."

"Why is it you act like a skunk all the rest of the year but turn around and give me a nice mink coat for Christmas?"

"Of course I enjoy the robe I got for Christmas. I like it so much that I wish my wife would let me wear it. She's had it on all morning."

"I don't mind going to their complaint department. What I can't stand is having to wait in line before I even get a chance to holler."

"I'm so upset by all this fuss that I feel just like a Christmas tree — full of little needles."

"Darling, I'm truly thrilled by the nice box of handkerchiefs you gave me. I can't wait to catch a cold so I can use them."

"Daddy, the kid up the street borrowed my sled and ran into a tree and broke off one of the runners. Can you fix it for me?"

King Remains AFL-CIO Chief

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio AFL-CIO President Frank King has maintained his leadership of the state's largest labor union despite a rumored rift with Gov. John J. Gilligan.

King was endorsed as the union's president in a Friday meeting of the organization's Executive Board, which also confirmed King's position as the labor union's lobbyist.

Reports had been circulating that Gilligan was attempting to have the Executive Board strip King of his lobbyist duties and turn them over to the union's Secretary-Treasurer, Warren Smith.

Full Production Of Fuel Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Office of Emergency Preparedness has asked petroleum refineries to use maximum capacity for producing heating oil to ease the midwestern fuel shortage.

"Our over-all objective at state and federal levels is to assure that no home is cold and that industry and farm fuel requirements are full," said OEP director George A. Lincoln Friday.

Lincoln said OEP has received only scattered reports of heating oil shortages but propane for crop drying continues extremely tight throughout the midwest.

A Page Of Opinion

Initial Complaint

The 93rd Congress may no sooner be settled in its seats in January before it begins hearing from its constituency on a matter of some concern. The subject is taxes, and many individuals may not yet be aware of how much more they will pay in federal taxes after January 1.

But federal taxes are not going up next year, you say? Yes they are, but not under income tax tables. Social Security taxes are increasing in 1973—and 1974 also. Further, the rate of increase is accelerating.

In 1971, the most anyone paid in Social Security taxes was $811. By 1974, it will be $1,324. A family in which two persons pay the maximum would have a Social Security tax bill of more than $2,600, with employer's contributions included.

Some taxpayers hold a mythical view of the Social Security system, believing the funds they contributed in payroll taxes are placed in an account to be drawn under their names at a later date. That is not the case. Yesterday's retirees are paid from the tax revenue produced today.

Social Security tax rates at the lower end of the income scale are now higher than income tax rates, with projections of still more increases in the rate well into the future. That first paycheck in January could produce a groan from the nation's work force audible all the way to Washington.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Tuesday, Dec. 26, the 361st day of 1972. There are five days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1776, George Washington's troops captured 1,000 Hessians in the Revolutionary War Battle of Trenton, N.J.

On this date: In 1805, the Peace of Pressburg was signed by Napoleon Bonaparte and the Emperor of Austria.

In 1827, Sultan Mahmud II of Turkey rejected the right of allies to mediate in a war with Greece.

In 1865, James Nason of Franklin, Mass. was granted a patent for the first coffee percolator in the United States.

In 1917, in World War I, the U.S. government took over operation of the nation's railroads.

In 1941, early in the Pacific war, the United States declared the Philippine capital of Manila an open city.

In 1943, a British destroyer sank the German battleship Scharnhorst off the coast of Norway.

Ten years ago: Eight refugees from deep inside East Germany made a dramatic escape to West Berlin by crashing a bus through barriers at a border checkpoint.

Five years ago: U.S. planes struck hard at supply convoys in North Vietnam after a Christmas truce ended.

One year ago: Sixteen veterans of the Vietnam war seized control of the Statue of Liberty in New York to dramatize their antiwar stand.

Today's birthdays: entertainer Steve Allen is 51 years old. Writer Henry Miller is 81.

Thought for today: That man is richest whose pleasures are the cheapest — Henry David Thoreau, American writer, 1817-1862.

"Confidentially, it's a wig."

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

All through college I was irritable, fretful, and often even aggressive. I was labeled a "nut."

I was sent to the school psychologist, and later to a psychiatrist. They gave me a great deal of insight into my problems and made it possible for me to live with myself and with others.

It was not until I returned home to a small, mid-Western community that our family doctor found that there was a physical basis for my behavior problems.

Do you think that this is often overlooked when people behave as I did?

Miss G.F., III.

Dear Miss F.:

Your frank and forthright letter highlights a few areas in medicine that deserve elaboration.

Again, I would like to point out that the family physician forms the concrete support of the total structure of modern medicine. It is often he who unravels the physical, the psychological, and the social aspects of illness and evaluates them.

When there is a need for more intensive investigation he seeks the opinion of a specialist in a more concentrated field of medicine. After all findings are laid out, the blueprint of these studies very often provide the answer, as in your case, to a complex problem.

The concept of psychosomatic disease has rightfully flourished in the past 50 years. It is now accepted that all physical problems have some associated emotional overtones.

Cutting The U. N. Down

By JEFFREY HART

Iconoclasts will love it, sentimentalists will hate it, but there can scarcely be any doubt about it: through a rather amusing manipulation of symbols, the Nixon Administration is clearly letting the UN know that as far as the White House is concerned the curious institution at Turtle Bay is not the last best hope of mankind.

First, there was the matter of the reduction in the U.S. financial contribution. The amount involved was small, but the signal given was large enough.

And now we have the Bush-Scali

ploy, George Bush taking over as chairman of the Republican National Committee, and John Scali moving in as UN Ambassador. Given that particular signal, one is almost tempted to say that President Nixon promoted Bush when he moved him to the National Committee. Scali, a former TV reporter and more recently a White House aide, is an estimable enough fellow, but he has little independent political stature. The appointment admirably defines the White House attitude toward the international organization.

Though realists have never considered the UN a potential Parliament of Man or nascent World Government, the organization originally was sold to the American people with an evangelical fervor that raised all sorts of hopes and made it something of a sacred cow. No American politician, in public anyway, attacks the UN. But evangelical faith in the U.N. rests on some very dubious assumptions indeed: that the institutions and practices of a few parliamentary democracies can be applied to international relations among highly various nations and peoples; that, since we have evolved toward one-man, one-vote in such democracies, the world, i.e., the General Assembly, should be conducted on the basis of one-nation, one-vote; that through such a mechanism, reason will supersede both force and its velvet glove, diplomacy, in international relations. All of this rests on a belief in the inherent benevolence and rationality of The People, the Family of Man as it is sometimes called, who will harken to the voice of reason and transcend narrow faction and local interest.

One is tempted to say: If you believe that, you can believe anything. And as a matter of fact, even the Truman Administration, under which the UN emerged, was determined — whatever it said in its public utterances — to keep the UN firmly in its place. When President Truman turned to Edward Stettinius as our first UN Representative, Stettinius wanted a seat in the Cabinet and therefore something like equivalent rank with the Secretary of State. Nothing doing, said Truman and Acheson. The post began as a simple ambassadorship, reporting through and instructed by the Secretary of State.

Its aggrandizement as a Cabinet post occurred almost by accident under President Eisenhower. Henry Cabot Lodge had been one of Ike's earliest backers for the Presidency, beating the drum here while the general was still in Europe as Commander-in-Chief at NATO. The UN ambassadorship was made a Cabinet post to gratify Lodge.

But this did not reflect its actual unimportance. John F. Kennedy regarded it as the perfect spot to which to retire Adlai Stevenson; even Dag Hammarskjold regarded the UN as, at best, an adjunct to diplomacy. But now this modest function has been vastly impaired by the proliferation of pseudo-nations and the demagoguery of their representatives in the General Assembly.

Of all Presidents since 1945, Richard Nixon is the one most at home in traditional and, yes, secret diplomacy; and, therefore, we have come full circle, from Edward Stettinius to John Scali.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — As you peer at the busted toys and broken budgets — uptight, hung over and suffering the guilt of financial and sensual excess — take heart. Maybe it isn't all that bad.

The year may have culminated in a buying orgy, but it followed months of stern discipline that put retailers to the test. It was a year of consumer selectivity, and a year in which they asserted their rights, options, opinions.

As the consumer analysts say, it isn't just what the consumer has in his pocket that determines how much is sold. Attitude counts too. The consumer isn't entirely predictable. He's wiser; he makes his own decisions.

Check with some resort operators and they'll probably tell you that the days of the free spenders and lavish tippers are over, for the time being anyway. People may have money to spend, but they look at the price tags.

They are, in fact, spending more at resorts and on cruises than ever before. But if you think they aren't demanding more, try counting all the discounts being offered. The onepiece days are gone.

It was a good year for automobiles, but if you checked you'll find that imports accounted for about 15 per cent of the market, despite the dollar devaluation that put them at a disadvantage.

One explanation being offered is that most of the imports were low-priced editions, and that the big attraction for them remained those relatively low price tags.

People clearly are exercising judgment in spending. While personal income rose 4 per cent this year, consumers didn't spend that money evenly. In fact, some of it went unspent. Savings deposits at savings and loan associations soared to $33 billion, a 19 per cent oneyear increase in total deposits, capped by a gain of $3.6 billion in December alone — right in the midst of the Christmas selling season.

But look at what happened to the stock market and mutual funds. Small investors refrained from committing themselves heavily to stocks. Week after week they sold more than they bought.

Redemptions of mutual funds presented serious problems for that industry, which was built on small investments and too often on big promises. Many once enthusiastic fund investors soured on fund management.

In summary, the consumer exercised his will and his judgement many times during the year, even though today he might feel that he succumbed in the final month to an old spending habit.

If you are among them, look at it this way: You were entitled to a little indiscriminate spending. And the merchant was entitled to the same.

Blanco was unable to stay home and protect his property, Carmody explained, because he was being held in the Bernalillo County Jail here after pleading guilty to burglary.

Pickaway County Seniors Celebrate Holiday Season

SALESLADIES—Two senior citizens are shown at the gift sales table Thursday during the Christmas celebration of members and friends of Pickaway Senior Citizen Center.

Over 100 members and guests of the Pickaway Senior Center enjoyed a carry-in Christmas dinner at Trinity Lutheran Parish House, Thursday. Colorful table decorations had been arranged by Mrs. Viola Hartranft, assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Doris Hartley.

Preceding dinner the Rev. Donald Makarius of Ringgold United Methodist Church gave the invocation. Special guests for the day were Commissioner and Mrs. Dick Tootle, Commissioner Wayne Hines, Commissioner-elect and Mrs. L. Robert Liston and Mrs. Geneva Brink, secretary in the Commissioners' office.

After dinner the AAUW singers entertained with a group of unusual Christmas carols. "We Need A Little Christmas," "A Borning Day," "Maria Walks Amid The Thorn," "He Is Born," "JESU! Thou Dear Babe Divine," "Ring Those Christmas Bells."

Singers were: Lois Ann Rustin, Sue Edwards, Gwen Painter, Elizabeth Dunkle, Eleanor Flierl, Ruth Tootle, Barbara Kibby, Mary Jane Dean and Winnie Beckley. Mrs. Tootle was the accompanist. She also accompanied for carol singing later in the program.

Mrs. Lorentz acted as emcee and introduced the Pickaway Senior staff members, Mrs. Vera Saunders, Mrs. Audrey Turner, Mrs. Joan Eller and Mrs. Carol Tinney. By way of Christmas greetings, the staff had made 1973 calendars which were at each place.

One very special member was present for the affair, Mrs. Minnie Heise, who celebrated her 102nd birthday in September.

An appropriate and thought-provoking meditation on "What Christmas Means To Me" was given by Rev. Makarius, who is the chairman of the Committee on Aging, the advisory council for the center.

Singing of Christmas carols concluded the program. One of the carols was interrupted by a jingling of bells and some loud "Ho ho ho's" and Santa Claus appeared. He distributed candy

Fair Taxation Group Files Expense Report

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Knox Countians for Fair Taxation reported to Secretary of State Ted W. Brown, Friday, that it spent $451.75 on the campaign to defeat the proposed repeal of the state income tax.

The group said that the remaining $4.25 they received in the campaign will be used to maintain a watch over use of the income tax money.

'Christian Christmas Symbols' Emmitt Chapel WSCS Program

Members of Emmett Chapel WSCS answered roll call at a recent meeting in the fellowship room by naming their most precious gift.

"Silent Night," "Joy To The World" and "O, Come All Ye Faithful" were sung.

Mabel Myers opened the business session with prayer. Mrs. Jim Ullman read from the Decision magazine an article entitled "Merry Christmas." She said that the word merry was found in the Bible 30 times.

Mrs. Clyde Cook chose "Hannah" as her woman of the Bible. Hannah was a God fearing woman, yet believed in him, loved him, prayed and promised and kept her promise to God and was the woman who personified ideal motherhood. Hannah was the favorite wife of Elkannah.

For many years Hannah was barren. She longed for a child and prayed unceasingly for a son. God granted her wish and the yearned for child arrived and she named him Samuel, which means, asked of the Lord.

More than anything else in the world she wanted a son and when God gave her one, she gave him back to the Lord. So when he was weaned Samuel was taken to the house of the Lord, to abide there forever. Once a year she visited him and took him a little coat she had made for him to wear. Her saintliness and sacrifice were rewarded for she bore Elkannah five more children. Mrs. Cook closed her story by reading "The Reason For Life."

Mrs. Keith Reeves distributed the new program books and it was announced that the society sent 122 cards and made 56 calls during the month of December.

The program on "Christian Christmas Symbols" was presented by Mrs. Gilbert Wamsley. She explained what each symbol meant and read from Colossians. She gave each member a leaflet entitled "Christmas Today — Holy or Humbug?"

Secret prayer partners were revealed and gifts were exchanged. New names for partners were drawn for the coming year.

Christmas cookies, canapes and egg nog were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Jim Ullman, Mrs. J. F. Hatfield, Mrs. Ted Thomas, Mrs. Robert Parmer and Mrs. James Short.

County Homemakers Club Gives Treats To Seniors

Duvall Do-All County Homemakers Club met recently in the home of Mrs. Barbara Kazee. Each member brought ingredients to help fill a treat basket for local senior citizens and shut-ins.

The spirit of Christmas in the lovely decorated home brought everyone around the tree where the baskets were leisurely filled.

The ladies then left in three car loads accompanied by five guests, Susan Serliner, Cheryl Price, Donette and Clifford Kazee and Pickaway County Home Economist, Penny Neilson.

Stops included the homes of Lewis Shirev, Mrs. Essie Baum, Mrs. Clara

Cummins, Mrs. Sadie Partee and Mrs. Joe Vause. At the Vause home they visited with and presented baskets to Ethel Creager and Gladys Vause. At each home the group gathered near the door and sang Christmas carols.

Upon returning to the Kazee residence, Clifford and Donette assisted in the annual gift exchange. Holiday refreshments included a home baked fruit cake made by the hostess.

Members present were Barbara Kazee, Burdell Coon, Doris Parsons, Mae Ross, Madge Baum, Evelyn Johnson, Pam Buettner, Marge Wilson, Dottie Roberts, Sheila Kirk and Vergie Vause.

Two other baskets were later delivered to Mrs. Gertrude Sawyer and Jeff Beatty.

Dinner Celebrates Holiday Season

Circleville Garden Club celebrated the Christmas season recently with a dinner and gift exchange at Wardell's Party Home.

Dr. W. L. Sprouse gave a short talk on the story of Christmas. He used "The Story Bible" by Pearl Buck as the source of his material.

President, John Kelchner presided at the brief business session and read an article of interest to the club entitled, "Christmas Trims The Environment."

Nelson Embrey spoke of the history of radio station WNRE. He told of future plans for the station which include an AM permit. A new studio will be built when both AM and FM are to be used. A question and answer period followed.

The January meeting will be held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Kelchner, 525 Garden Parkway.

Citizens Band Club Holds Family Party

A Christmas party was held recently by Roundtown Citizens Band Club in the basement of the Eagles lodge in Circleville.

Sue Lockard asked the blessing before the carry-in dinner attended by members and their families. Carolyn Davis was awarded the door prize brought by Yvonne Adams. Mystery sister names for the past year were revealed.

The highlight of the evening was a visit from Santa Claus who distributed gifts and candy to everyone.

Present for the gala evening were: Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Iles, Mrs.

Marvene Young, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Davis and Brian, Mrs. Opal Barnhart and Brenda, Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Wood, P. J., Ellen and Forrest; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Barnhart, Joe, Tom, Tina and Shelley.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Weethee, Mr. and Mrs. Truman Ramey, Jimmy and David; Mr. and Mrs. George Bowers and Larry; Mr. and Mrs. James Eyerman, Scott, Debbie and Judy; Mr. and Mrs. James Lockard and Chris; Mrs. Mildred Davis, Miss Pauline Davis, and Patty and Carol Renkel.

The next regular monthly meeting will be 7 p.m. Jan. 8th in the American Red Cross building, 167 Watt St.

Leaky hot water faucets waste water and gas and money.

The steady bleep-bloop of a leaky water faucet is more than a nuisance, it's a waste of one of our vital natural resources—water.

And if the leak is hot water, it wastes another vital natural resource—the natural gas used to heat the water.

Not to mention the money used to pay for the gas to heat the water.

A leak that fills an ordinary cup in ten minutes wastes 3,280 gallons of water a year.

Fix your leaky faucet. With a two-cent washer.

Natural gas and water... and money... are too valuable to waste.

There are other ways you can conserve gas. Keep the thermostat on your water heater set at the normal temperature. Avoid partial loads in your washing machine and dishwasher. Don't use an excessive amount of hot water in your bath or in the shower.

Keep your water heater working efficiently by draining about a bucketful of water a month from the faucet at the base of the heater. This prevents mineral deposit build-up that makes the heater work harder. Use the gas you need in your home. But not a penny's worth more.

Write for our free booklet, "30 Ways to Save", for more ideas.

Gas is precious, pure energy... use it wisely.

Her saintliness and sacrifice were rewarded for she bore Elkanah five more children. Mrs. Cook closed her story by reading "The Reason For Life."

Mrs. Keith Reeves distributed the new program books and it was announced that the society sent 122 cards and made 56 calls during the month of December.

The program on "Christian Christmas Symbols" was presented by Mrs. Gilbert Wamsley. She explained what each symbol meant and read from Colossians. She gave each member a leaflet entitled "Christmas Today — Holy or Humbug?"

Secret prayer partners were revealed and gifts were exchanged. New names for partners were drawn for the coming year.

Christmas cookies, canapes and egg nog were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Jim Ullman, Mrs. J. F. Hatfield, Mrs. Ted Thomas, Mrs. Robert Farmer and Mrs. James Short.

County Homemakers Club Gives Treats To Seniors

Duval Do-All County Homemakers Club met recently in the home of Mrs. Barbara Kaze. Each member brought ingredients to help fill a treat basket for local senior citizens and shut-ins.

The spirit of Christmas in the lovely decorated home brought everyone around the tree where the baskets were leisurely filled.

The ladies then left in three car loads accompanied by five guests, Susan Serliner, Cheryl Price, Donette and Clifford Kaze and Pickaway County Home Economist, Penny Neilson.

Stops included the homes of Lewis Shirey, Mrs. Essie Baum, Mrs. Clara

Cummins, Mrs. Sadie Partee and Mrs. Joe Vause. At the Vause home they visited with and presented baskets to Ethel Creager and Gladys Vause. At each home the group gathered near the door and sang Christmas carols.

Upon returning to the Kaze residence, Clifford and Donette assisted in the annual gift exchange. Holiday refreshments included a home baked fruit cake made by the hostess.

Members present were Barbara Kaze, Burdell Coon, Doris Parsons, Mae Ross, Madge Baum, Evelyn Johnson, Pam Buettner, Marge Wilson, Dottie Roberts, Sheila Kirk and Vergie Vause.

Two other baskets were later delivered to Mrs. Gertrude Sawyer and Jeff Beatty.

Dinner Celebrates Holiday Season

Circleville Garden Club celebrated the Christmas season recently with a dinner and gift exchange at Wardell's Party Home.

Dr. W. L. Sprouse gave a short talk on the story of Christmas. He used "The Story Bible" by Pearl Buck as the source of his material.

President, John Kelchner presided at the brief business session and read an article of interest to the club entitled, "Christmas Trims The Environment."

Nelson Embrey spoke of the history of radio station WNRE. He told of future plans for the station which include an AM permit. A new studio will be built when both AM and FM are to be used. A question and answer period followed.

The January meeting will be held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Kelchner, 525 Garden Parkway.

Citizens Band Club Holds Family Party

A Christmas party was held recently by Roundtown Citizens Band Club in the basement of the Eagles lodge in Circleville.

Sue Lockard asked the blessing before the carry-in dinner attended by members and their families. Carolyn Davis was awarded the door prize brought by Yvonne Adams. Mystery sister names for the past year were revealed.

The highlight of the evening was a visit from Santa Claus who distributed gifts and candy to everyone.

Present for the gala evening were: Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Iles, Mrs.

Marvene Young, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Davis and Brian, Mrs. Opal Barnhart and Brenda, Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Wood, P. J., Ellen and Forrest; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Barnhart, Joe, Tom, Tina and Shelley.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Weethee, Mr. and Mrs. Truman Ramey, Jimmy and David; Mr. and Mrs. George Bowers and Larry; Mr. and Mrs. James Eyerman, Scott, Debbie and Judy; Mr. and Mrs. James Lockard and Chris; Mrs. Mildred Davis, Miss Pauline Davis, and Patty and Carol Renkel.

The next regular monthly meeting will be 7 p.m. Jan. 8th in the American Red Cross building, 167 Watt St.

Leaky

hot water faucets

and money.

The steady bleep-bloop of a leaky water faucet is more than a nuisance, it's a waste of one of our vital natural resources—water.

And if the leak is hot water, it wastes another vital natural resource—the natural gas used to heat the water.

Not to mention the money used to pay for the gas to heat the water.

A leak that fills an ordinary cup in ten minutes wastes 3,280 gallons of water a year.

Fix your leaky faucet. With a two-cent washer.

Natural gas and water... and money... are too valuable to waste.

There are other ways you can conserve gas. Keep the thermostat on your water heater set at the normal temperature. Avoid partial loads in your washing machine and dishwasher. Don't use an excessive amount of hot water in your bath or in the shower.

Keep your water heater working efficiently by draining about a bucketful of water a month from the faucet at the base of the heater.

This prevents mineral deposit build-up that makes the heater work harder.

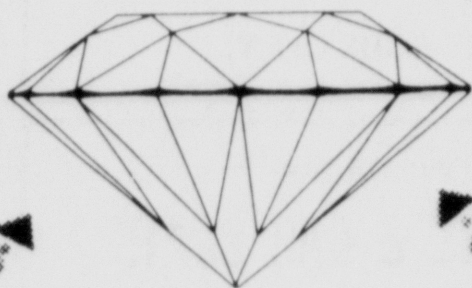

Use the gas you need in your home. But not a penny's worth more.

Write for our free booklet, "30 Ways to Save", for more ideas.

Gas is precious, pure energy... use it wisely.

Three Girls Are Selected As Seniors Of The Week

SUSAN ANDERSON

SANDY COOK

JILL EHMAN

By NANCY STOUT
This week three girls were selected for the Senior Spotlight.

Susan Anderson, 17, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Anderson and lives at 185 Scioto Street, Ashville.

Susan is enrolled in business courses and lists government as her favorite subject. She is active in the gymnastics team, yearbook staff, and National Honor Society. Susan attended Buckeye Girls State last summer.

Among her favorites are shooting pool, listening to tapes, Italian food, the color orange, the saying, "DECENT," and Neil Young.

After graduation, Susan plans to become a Certified Public Accountant. Her comment on graduation: "I'm ready for graduation!"

Sandy Cook, 17, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Cook and lives at Route 5, Circleville.

Sandy is enrolled in business courses and lists government as her favorite subject. She is active in Drama Club and Library Club. Among her favorites are cooking, shrimp, the color black, and Jeff Singleton.

After graduation, Sandy would like to work in a bank. Her comment on graduation is, "I can't wait to graduate!"

New Teacher Enjoys Pets And Camping

MRS. CAROLYN VEIT

By PAM HANNAH
Mrs. Carolyn Veit and her husband, John Veit, moved from Columbus to Gregory's Trailer Court, Route 1, Ashville, when she began to teach at Teays Valley this year.

Mrs. Veit teaches ninth grade English, both general and academic. Her husband works at 'xerox as an assistant pressman.

Mrs. Veit graduated from Ohio State University. She taught at West High School last year.

The new TV teacher and her husband love animals. They have a very large tank for their fish. But their pride and joy is their dog, Mrs. Veit says that Boo is a female dog, but she has not yet realized that she is a dog and they do not have the heart to tell her!

Mrs. Veit also enjoys sewing, camping, traveling, and cooking. She likes all kinds of music but mostly folk music. She says she would like to visit Europe. In sports, Mrs. Veit likes basketball best.

Her comment on Teays Valley is: "I enjoy it very much."

Mrs. Veit has a nice personality and is easy to get to know. We welcome her to Teays Valley.

Outdoor Area For Learning Being Planned

By RHONDA WILCOXON

What kind of wild animals can live in a developed residential area? What types of evergreens, shrubs and flowers can we grow around our house? What happens to farm land that is not cultivated for long periods of time?

These are the types of problems that Teays Valley students will be working with when a planned Outdoor Learning Center is developed.

A land laboratory is another name for the Learning Center, according to Dale Allen, one of the high school biology teachers. It is an area where living things may be observed in their own habitat. It is hoped that by increasing the natural habitat more wildlife will be drawn to the school area.

Mr. Allen said that there are three acres available for this project. In the laboratory he hopes to have a learning trail, a pond, horticulture plots, and a seedling nursery.

Work on the new land laboratory is planned to begin in the spring. Students will help in the development, and some of the materials will be donated by interested individuals and groups.

Mr. Allen said that the FFA, the Science Club, and Key Club, and the biology classes are involved in the project.

It is necessary now to develop and preserve what we have so that wild life can be maintained and students can see nature first hand on the school property, Mr. Allen stated.

Interested groups or individuals who would like more information or would be interested in helping may contact Mr. Allen at the high school.

Jill Ehman, 17, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Ehman and lives at Route 2, Orient.

Jill is enrolled in business courses and lists Typing II as her favorite subject. She is active in Drama Club, National Honor Society, and is a

Students Have Long Lists Of Stuffings For Stockings

By PAM HANNAH, MINDY LAWLESS and TERRY CLINE

Christmas is a time of giving and receiving, and we all have our own ideas. Some students at Teays Valley stated their choices for Old Saint Nick to see.

Steve Workman—"A doggy and a car."

Cindy Sturgell—"I want an English sheepdog and a red fire truck."

Teri Fout—"I want Ed Lohr to give me his Camaro."

Charlotte Booth—"A red 64 Chevy with 4 speeds and a typewriter. I also want Santa to give me strength to make it through high school."

Janis Craig—"A boy friend and passes for each of my study halls."

Terry Cline—"Someone special."

Dena Miller—"A car."

Mark Fairless—"A 250 Suzuki Cross."

Janis Hoff—"Snow, so that we can use our snowmobile during vacation."

Maria McGuigan—"I want Santa to help me get through my last year of high school."

Donna Brown—"A picnic basket from Yogi Berra with Dave in it."

Vickie Eitel—"A warm, cute, cuddly puppy to keep me company on the few times I'm not with Dennis."

Dave Werner—"A teddy bear."

Mr. Larry Milam—"An excuse to get out of eighth period study hall."

Margret Moody—"A 6-footer."

Joe Maxie—"Chris."

Brad Black—"Freedom."

Craig Pontius—"Safe from Alva."

Bruce Haines—"I'm willing to accept any offer."

Jay Brinker—"Injury-free body."

Jeff Singleton—"A certain 5'2" homecoming queen."

Larry Lewis—"A brand new pickup truck for my dad."

Mindy Lawless—"All I want is for God to bring my Pat home for Christmas."

Vickie Gochenour—"I have what I want."

Sandy Cook—"Just Jeff."

Bill Hill—"An 'A' in government."

Betsy Finch—"Wouldn't you like to know?"

Dave Archer—"An autographed picture of Wayne Newton."

Randy Wharton—"Two pictures of Donny Osmond."

Kathy Null—"Pritch."

Kathy McPherson—"A date for New Year's Eve."

Diane Smith—"A guy (any guy)."

Joe Harris—"A nice, tuff girl."

Curtis Fannin—"Anything anyone will give me."

Jill Ehman—"To get rid of an ulcer."

Teresa Kirk—"No work on Sundays for certain people."

Kathy Trego—"George Bowman with a bow wrapped around him."

Nancy Stout—"Jim and a new coat."

Debbie Wilkins—"Money."

Maria Cook—"An A in algebra."

Judy Ritchie—"A vacation."

Debbie Havens—"Portable television."

Mr. Palmer—"A nice quiet vacation and a loud New Year's."

Mr. Zageris—"Ski equipment."

Gift Shopping Requires Strong Spirit And Body

EDITORS NOTE—This story was written by Karen Duvall for the December, 1962, edition of Voice of the Valley. As the story is still timely in December, 1972, it is being submitted to the Blue and Gold page.

Christmas is usually a time of gala celebration. However, every good thing must have some sort of drawback; and in this case, shopping seems to be it.

The typical shopper sets out early in the morning armed with a shopping bag, pocketbook, charge plate, and a happy holiday spirit.

This year is not going to be like last year. This year she will not lose her temper with the clerks, or shove or push to get to an already overcrowded counter.

She arrives at her destination. Now to find a parking place. Ah! A car is pulling out in front of the store in which she wants to shop.

Just as she gets there another driver, also eyeing the spot, has managed to nose dive her by jutting the front end of his car into the small space.

She counts slowly to ten and goes on her way around the block. She finally finds another spot three blocks from the store that she wants to shop in. Grudgingly, she convinces herself that the place is better than nothing.

She smiles a nardy smile and forces her way into the store just in time to meet an oncoming shopper in the revolving doors. After a few minutes the shopper has, with the help of several bystanders, picked herself and her packages from the floor and again faces the door.

Having been labeled a "clumsy, awkward Christmas shopper" by all concerned, she once again trots on her way. It was just an accident—it could have happened to anyone.

There's an elevator going up. But just as she gets there, the door mockingly closes. Another soon comes by; and after the usual disembarking of passengers, she finds herself packed in the back corner.

Finally after being cramped in the small compact compartment she hears her floor called out and wiggles out of her tiny space.

Well, the show must go on; and she trudges on to the doll department. She decides to get two dolls alike. After finding the only matching pair in the store, she gets the clerk's attention.

Now, for her son. She purchases a monstrous three-footed robot and, of course, has it shipped. After spending most of the day on this floor, she heads bravely for the Men's Department. Now, what to get "him" is the biggest problem.

Loaded with boxes and sacks, she dodges shoppers and moves from counter to counter. Finally, she chances upon the electric shaver department. Eureka! She makes a purchase and reaches into her pocketbook for her trusty charge plate.

In the shuffle, she drops her purse. Being utterly helpless as she is well loaded down with packages, she asks the clerk to help get the junk back in her pocketbook. He slams the junk into the pocketbook with a look most men and women would give an overly packed suitcase. He adds one more bundle to the huge pile, and she takes her leave.

Now, if someone would kindly point her to the nearest door...

She arrives home safely and hides all the packages. While giving her feet a good soaking, she thinks about the day when her children go Christmas shopping for their own children.

On Christmas Day, other and Father sit watching the children with shining eyes, for they know that next years hopping will be the same problem as it was this year!

AT BOOKS IN THE CHILDREN'S LIBRARY

There is a lot of activity at the library now. New books are arriving and programs are being planned to create a lively atmosphere for the approaching holiday. Two college students are spending their Christmas break working at the library, as they have done in the past. Mr. Bob Thomas, a junior at Otterbein College, is doing inventory work.

Miss Karen Ried, a sophomore at Miami University, is helping us promote books in the young adult section. Karen will be in charge of the book rap sessions that will be held at the library on December 26, 27, 28 and 29 at 2:30 p.m. Many interesting and controversial issues will be discussed during these sessions. We hope that the young adult section will have as many enthusiastic new readers as it has new books, such as the following ones.

"A dream to Touch" is the lovely story of a teen-aged girl who is learning important lessons about honesty, love and life while growing up in the Chicago slums. This book says; set yourself a goal, work hard and be kind to people, and you will succeed. It is an old-fashioned theme, but it makes sense. This book was written by Anne Emery.

"Great American Deserts" is a beautiful new book by Rowe Findley. It presents an educational theme with a work of art. This book covers the geography, history, plant and animal life, civilization, problems and beauty of America's desert areas. The beauty of the book lies in the artistic photographs which Walter Meyers Edwards has provided. It is in the young adult section, but it would be interesting reading for adults, too.

"The Beachcombers" by Helen Cresswell is an adventure story for young adults. It involves Ned Kerne, a boy who finds himself a part of a mysterious battle between two groups of people; the scavengers, and the beachcombers. Like Ned, the reader finds himself trying to decide which way is right; whose side to take. It is an exciting decision.

Soccer is the game of the English boys in Brian Glanville's book, "Goalkeepers are Different." Mr. Glanville has written five books on soccer, and is an expert on the subject. He has worked on radio, television, and movie shows about soccer, and has played in over 300 amateur soccer games. This is the first book he has written for teen-agers. Because soccer is not a major sport in this country, most youngsters are exposed to it only on a very limited basis. This book is not only an exciting account of the sport; it also provides a good explanation of the plays involved.

Students Have Long Lists Of Stuffings For Stockings

By PAM HANNAH, MINDY LAWLESS and TERRY CLINE

Christmas is a time of giving and receiving, and we all have our own ideas. Some students at Teays Valley stated their choices for Old Saint Nick to see.

Steve Workman—"A doggy and a car."

Cindy Sturgell—"I want an English sheepdog and a red fire truck."

Teri Fout—"I want Ed Lohr to give me his Camaro."

Charlotte Booth—"A red 64 Chevy with 4 speeds and a typewriter. I also want Santa to give me strength to make it through high school."

Janis Craig—"A boy friend and passes for each of my study halls."

Terry Cline—"Someone special."

Dena Miller—"A car."

Mark Fairless—"A 250 Suzuki Cross."

Janis Hoff—"Snow, so that we can use our snowmobile during vacation."

Maria McGuigan—"I want Santa to help me get through my last year of high school."

Donna Brown—"A picnic basket from Yogi Berra with Dave in it."

Vickie Eitel—"A warm, cute, cuddly puppy to keep me company on the few times I'm not with Dennis."

Dave Werner—"A teddy bear."

Mr. Larry Milam—"An excuse to get out of eighth period study hall."

Margret Moody—"A 6-footer."

Joe Maxie—"Chris."

Brad Black—"Freedom."

Craig Pontius—"Safe from Alva."

Bruce Haines—"I'm willing to accept any offer."

Jay Brinker—"Injury-free body."

Jeff Singleton—"A certain 5'2" homecoming queen."

Larry Lewis—"A brand new pickup truck for my dad."

Mindy Lawless—"All I want is for God to bring my Pat home for Christmas."

Vickie Gochenour—"I have what I want."

Sandy Cook—"Just Jeff."

Bill Hill—"An 'A' in government."

Betsy Finch—"Wouldn't you like to know?"

Dave Archer—"An autographed picture of Wayne Newton."

Randy Wharton—"Two pictures of Donny Osmond."

Kathy Null—"Pritch."

Kathy McPherson—"A date for New Year's Eve."

Diane Smith—"A guy (any guy)."

Joe Harris—"A nice, tuff girl."

Curtis Fannin—"Anything anyone will give me."

Jill Ehman—"To get rid of an ulcer."

Teresa Kirk—"No work on Sundays for certain people."

Kathy Trego—"George Bowman with a bow wrapped around him."

Nancy Stout—"Jim and a new coat."

Debbie Wilkins—"Money."

Marla Cook—"An A in algebra."

Judy Ritchie—"A vacation."

Debbie Havens—"Portable television."

Mr. Palmer—"A nice quiet vacation and a loud New Year's."

Mr. Zageris—"Ski equipment."

Gift Shopping Requires Strong Spirit And Body

EDITORS NOTE—This story was written by Karen Duvall for the December, 1962, edition of Voice of the Valley. As the story is still timely in December, 1972, it is being submitted to the Blue and Gold page.

Christmas is usually a time of gala celebration. However, every good thing must have some sort of drawback; and in this case, shopping seems to be it.

The typical shopper sets out early in the morning armed with a shopping bag, pocketbook, charge plate, and a happy holiday spirit.

This year is not going to be like last year. This year she will not lose her temper with the clerks, or shove or push to get to an already overcrowded counter.

She arrives at her destination. Now to find a parking place. Ah! A car is pulling out in front of the store in which she wants to shop.

Just as she gets there another driver, also eyeing the spot, has managed to nose dive her by jutting the front end of his car into the small space.

She counts slowly to ten and goes on her way around the block. She finally finds another spot three blocks from the store that she wants to shop in. Grudgingly, she convinces herself that the place is better than nothing.

She smiles a nardy smile and forces her way into the store just in time to meet an oncoming shopper in the revolving doors. After a few minutes the shopper has, with the help of several bystanders, picked herself and her packages from the floor and again faces the door.

Having been labeled a "clumsy, awkward Christmas shopper" by all concerned, she once again trots on her way. It was just an accident—it could have happened to anyone.

There's an elevator going up. But just as she gets there, the door mockingly closes. Another soon comes by; and after the usual disembarking of passengers, she finds herself packed in the back corner.

Finally after being cramped in the small compact compartment she hears her floor called out and wiggles out of her tiny space.

Well, the show must go on; and she trudges on to the doll department. She decides to get two dolls alike. After finding the only matching pair in the store, she gets the clerk's attention.

Now, for her son. She purchases a monstrous three-footed robot and, of course, has it shipped. After spending most of the day on this floor, she heads bravely for the Men's Department. Now, what to get "him" is the biggest problem.

Loaded with boxes and sacks, she dodges shoppers and moves from counter to counter. Finally, she chances upon the electric shaver department. Eureka! She makes a purchase and reaches into her pocketbook for her trusty charge plate.

In the shuffle, she drops her purse. Being utterly helpless as she is well loaded down with packages, she asks the clerk to help get the junk back in her pocketbook. He slams the junk into the pocketbook with a look most men and women would give an overly packed suitcase. He adds one more bundle to the huge pile, and she takes her leave.

Now, if someone would kindly point her to the nearest door . . .

She arrives home safely and hides all the packages. While giving her feet a good soaking, she thinks about the day when her children go Christmas shopping for their own children.

On Christmas Day, other and Father sit watching the children with shining eyes, for they know that next years hopping will be the same problem as it was this year!

AT BOOKS IN THE CHILDREN'S LIBRARY

There is a lot of activity at the library now. New books are arriving and programs are being planned to create a lively atmosphere for the approaching holiday. Two college students are spending their Christmas break working at the library, as they have done in the past. Mr. Bob Thomas, a junior at Otterbein College, is doing inventory work.

Miss Karen Ried, a sophomore at Miami University, is helping us promote books in the young adult section. Karen will be in charge of the book rap sessions that will be held at the library on December 26, 27, 28 and 29 at 2:30 p.m. Many interesting and

State Wage Suit Planned By Workers

COLUMBUS, (AP) — State employees say they will reactivate their Ohio Supreme Court suit aimed at forcing the state to pay retroactive salary increases denied last March and again Friday by the federal Pay Board.

The state had asked the board earlier this month to permit it to pay out some $5.5 million in raises that would normally have been paid to employees between December 1971 and last March.

The General Assembly enacted the raises in December, but the Pay Board did not approve them until March and refused to permit payment of the raises retroactive to the time the legislature authorized them.

The Ohio Civil Service Employees Association and other public employee groups almost immediately filed suits contending the money had been appropriated by the legislature and therefore could not be denied them.

The suits had been held in abeyance pending the Pay Board action Friday. OCSEA executive secretary James Marshall said his group was reviving its suit.

"We are in communication with the Supreme Court and requesting an immediate hearing in this case," Marshall said.

controversial issues will be discussed during these sessions. We hope that the young adult section will have as many enthusiastic new readers as it has new books, such as the following ones.

"A dream to Touch" is the lovely story of a teen-aged girl who is learning important lessons about honesty, love and life while growing up in the Chicago slums. This book says; set yourself a goal, work hard and be kind to people, and you will succeed. It is an old-fashioned theme, but it makes sense. This book was written by Anne Emery.

"Great American Deserts" is a beautiful new book by Rowe Findley. It presents an educational theme with a work of art. This book covers the geography, history, plant and animal life, civilization, problems and beauty of America's desert areas. The beauty of the book lies in the artistic photographs which Walter Meayers Edwards has provided. It is in the young adult section, but it would be interesting reading for adults, too.

"The Beachcombers" by Helen Cresswell is an adventure story for young adults. It involves Ned Kerne, a boy who finds himself a part of a mysterious battle between two groups of people; the scavengers, and the beachcombers. Like Ned, the reader finds himself trying to decide which way is right; whose side to take. It is an exciting decision.

Soccer is the game of the English boys in Brian Glanville's book, "Goalkeepers are Different." Mr. Glanville has written five books on soccer, and is an expert on the subject. He has worked on radio, television, and movie shows about soccer, and has played in over 300 amateur soccer games. This is the first book he has written for teen-agers. Because soccer is not a major sport in this country, most youngsters are exposed to it only on a very limited basis. This book is not only an exciting account of the sport; it also provides a good explanation of the plays involved.

Navy Official Fights Pigeonholing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon official Gordon Rule says he'll fight a Navy attempt to oust him for publicly criticizing President Nixon's choice of a major shipbuilder to oversee the federal budget.

Adm. Isaac Kidd Jr., the Navy's materiel chief, reassigned Rule Thursday from his post as director of Navy procurement control. Kidd had earlier visited Rule's home and asked him to retire.

The Pentagon said Kidd "lost confidence in the judgment of Mr. Rule ..."

Rule said in an interview if Kidd wants to get rid of him, "he's going to have to prefer charges because I'm not going to sign that retirement statement." Nor said Rule would he accept reassignment as a senior consultant on procurement at the Navy's Logistics Management School.

In a series of Senate hearings on military weapons procurement, Rule said former President Dwight Eisenhower would be twitching in his grave if he knew Nixon had named Roy Ash, former president of Litton Industries, a big Navy supplier, as head of the Office of Management and Budget.

Rule, like Eisenhower, said unhealthy ties exist between civilian weapons suppliers and the federal government. Rule said Ash's appointment only worsened that problem.

Pentagon spokesman Jerry Friedheim said he was unaware of any White House role in the efforts to force Rule out of the government.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chairman of the Senate-House economic subcommittee which heard Rule's testimony Tuesday, charged the Navy with "launching a heartless and cruel reprisal" against "a courageous and honest government employee ... for telling the truth."

Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., called it "a blatant form of intimidation."

"Obviously, Kidd is acting as the hatchet-man for those people who benefit from giant defense bail-outs and giveaways, and want Rule fired for his honest statement," he said.

Proxmire said he has asked both Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird and Navy Secretary John W. Warner to reverse any decision "to get rid of or punish Gordon Rule."

Rule was critical of Litton's delays and cost overruns on a multimillion dollar shipbuilding contract for which he was responsible in the Pentagon.

During his 10 years as director of Naval procurement, Rule, a lawyer, developed a cost control system credited with saving $100 million in the cost of the F111 swing-wing jet fighter engines.

Under his "should cost" system, military procurement officers would confer with a defense contractor to determine what the work should cost the taxpayers rather than accept the contractor's original estimate.

Underground Nuclear Device Exploded

YUCCA FLATS, Nev. (AP) — An underground nuclear device with a force of 20 to 200 kilotons detonated at the Nevada Test Site produced no sign of surface radiation, the Atomic Energy Commission reports.

The device set off Thursday at a depth of 2,260 feet at the Yucca Flats area 85 miles northwest of Las Vegas was a weapons related test conducted for the Lawrence Livermore Laboratories, a spokesman said.

Symington's Wife Dies

WASHINGTON (AP) — A memorial service will be held Thursday for Evelyn Wadsworth Symington, wife of U.S. Sen. Stuart Symington and mother of Rep. James Symington of Missouri, who died Sunday of a heart attack. She was 69.

She was stricken after returning from the Washington Redskins-Green Bay Packers National Football Conference playoff game.

Mrs. Symington had been in good health and had recently vacationed with her husband in Florida after a three-week tour of Eastern Europe with other members of Congress.

She was the daughter of James W. Wadsworth Jr., a Republican senator and later representative from New York. Her grandfather also was a congressman from New York.

Her mother was Alice Hay, daughter of statesman and diplomat John Hay who was private secretary to President Abraham Lincoln. Hay also was a four-time ambassador and then secretary of state during the administrations of Presidents McKinley and Theodore Roosevelt.

The Symingtons had been married 48 years.

Muscle Builder Charles Atlas Dies At 80

POINT LOOKOUT, N.Y. (AP) — Angelo Siciliano, better known as Charles Atlas, the muscle builder, will be buried Wednesday following funeral services at Our Lady of Miraculous Medal Roman Catholic Church.

Atlas, who claimed he sold his "dynamic tension" body building correspondence course to more than seven million customers, died Saturday in Long Beach at the age of 80.

Selected as the "World's Most Perfectly Developed Man" in 1922 and 1923, Atlas still boasted a 17-inch neck, a 47-inch chest, a 34-inch waist and 15½-inch biceps nearly 50 years later.

His wife Margaret died in 1965 after 47 years of marriage. They had a son and daughter.

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Following is the Ohio weather summary from the National Weather Service:

Light snow began spreading over Ohio this morning, just a day late for a white Christmas, but just in time for testing out new sleds, toboggans and snowmobiles.

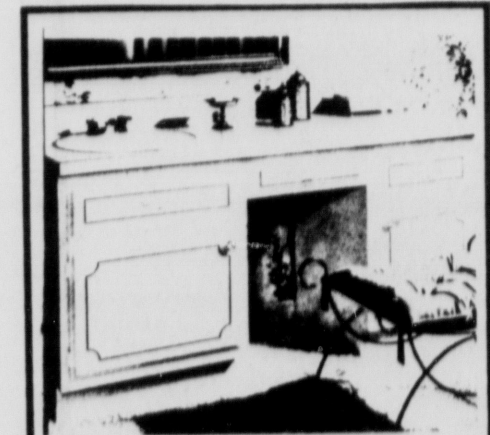

The snowfall was not expected to be heavy, but falling temperatures throughout the day should help preserve it.

An arctic air mass centered over the northern plains and upper Great Lakes was forecast to spread over Ohio, bringing the chilly temperatures. The cool weather will be especially noticeable tonight in western and southwestern counties where clear skies are forecast.

Snow accumulations today were expected to total only an inch or so.

Lows this morning were generally in the 30s, except for a few readings in the low 40s in the southeast. These readings were expected to be the highs for the day.

Alexander The Great of Macedon died at the age of 33 of fever, in Babylon.

During his 10 years as director of Naval procurement, Rule, a lawyer, developed a cost control system credited with saving $100 million in the cost of the F111 swing-wing jet fighter engines.

Under his "should cost" system, military procurement officers would confer with a defense contractor to determine what the work should cost the taxpayers rather than accept the contractor's original estimate.

Underground Nuclear Device Exploded

YUCCA FLATS, Nev. (AP) — An underground nuclear device with a force of 20 to 200 kilotons detonated at the Nevada Test Site produced no sign of surface radiation, the Atomic Energy Commission reports.

The device set off Thursday at a depth of 2,260 feet at the Yucca Flats area 85 miles northwest of Las Vegas as a weapons related test conducted for the Lawrence Livermore Laboratories, a spokesman said.

Ohio Teaching Methods Undergo Changes

MENTOR, Ohio (AP) — Barbara Lepene teaches first grade. She uses puppets to instruct her moppets. "Phonics is sometimes hard for them," said Mrs. Lepene. "When words come out of a puppet's mouth, it makes it more interesting for them, and they can learn more easily." Then, there's discipline: "When the room gets too noisy, I get Raggedy-Ann out and then say, 'Raggedy-Ann has to go back in because it's too noisy,' and they quiet down." Mrs. Lepene's puppets are just one sign of a quiet revolution going on in Ohio education, a revolution aimed at making Little Johnny's teachers better and better. It's a three-way revolution: —Revision of the way teachers are trained in college. —Toughening of the requirements to be certified as teachers. —Keeping Ohio teachers up-to-date on developments in the fields they teach and in methods of teaching. Mrs. Lepene and her nanu puppets are just one product of the Mentor school system's new professional growth program. There's Sandra Schudel who teaches third graders arithmetic with peg boards, and Barbara Somoygi, who teaches junior high school students Ohio history through slides she snapped last summer. Biology Teacher Roger Post collected leaf specimens in Canada last summer as one of his independent study programs, while Judy Cottle gets fourth graders with learning problems part-way over the hill with a "learning box" — a box filled with items designed to interest and help the children. Professional growth programs, or in-service training — whatever you want to call it — is a thing of the immediate future. "We will ask the legislature for a modest amount of money to begin an in-service training center," said Dr. Martin Essex, state superintendent of schools. The proposed state center would prepare a broad range of training packages, covering both developments in the subjects they teach and in the way to teach them. Individual Ohio school systems would use the material in local seminars. Mentor and the Toledo school system already have teacher training programs.

Indiana Fire Rakes 4 Buildings

GARRETT, Ind. (AP)—Two buildings were destroyed and two others, including the town hall, damaged early this morning by a fire that burned out of control more than four hours in the downtown area of this northeastern Indiana city of 5,000.

Fire departments from at least 12 cities and communities, including Fort Wayne 15 miles to the south, battled the fire.

Police Chief Gene Snook said there were no injuries.

The four buildings were on the same block of the three-block business section.

The fire apparently started in the basement of a food store late Monday night, but Snook said the cause and extent of property damage were undetermined.

A drug store next to the grocery was destroyed, and the town hall and a men's clothing store sustained smoke and water damage.

The city police dispatcher was evacuated from the old, three-story brick town hall, adjacent to the food store, but Snook said that was a precautionary measure taken when it appeared a wall might collapse.

The trustees, John Beavers, Carl Braskett and Paul Cochenour, are disgusted over recent vandalism to the cemetery which destroyed 45 tombstones, many dating back to the mid-1800s.

Most of the tombstones were uprooted from their gravesites and smashed. Many were toppled from their marble bases.

Damage of a less permanent nature was also reported when the vandals tossed Christmas grave floral arrangements into an adjacent field, destroyed an eternal flame at one gravesite and smashed a picture on a tombstone at another.

Pickaway County Sheriff Dwight Radcliff is also conducting an investigation into the incident.

Veto Change In State's Labor Laws

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. John J. Gilligan, Friday, vetoed a bill taking certain job protections for women out of the state labor laws. He signed five other bills but said he wanted the state to deal with jobs for all Ohioans, not one group.

Democrats tried, unsuccessfully, before the legislature adjourned last week to amend the female labor bill to extend to all employees the same protections against arbitrary treatment by employers that women receive.

The governor said he will have "definite proposals" to make to the next legislature "to provide effective minimum health and safety protection to all employees in the state."

He said the administration will propose legislation to outlaw certain shoddy business practices that were initially in the bill, but taken out by the senate.

Among the bills signed by the governor were the omnibus crime bill, revising Ohio's criminal code. Gilligan said he would allow a consumer protection bill to become law without his signature.

He said he decided not to sign that bill because it was "inadequate" but had some useful provisions.

The governor also signed bills requiring all school districts to employ a superintendent, conforming Ohio's unemployment compensation law with federal acts, providing additional protection of state game preserves, and tightening state inspection of boilers.

Mentor gives teachers pay hikes for each four growth credit units, from $190 for teachers with a bachelor's degree to $303 for a teacher with a doctorate.

"This type of program ought to be keyed to every teacher salary schedule in the state of Ohio," said Supt. Robert Hemberger.

The present surplus of teachers in most fields permits the other two fields of teacher revolution — tougher certificates and revised college training.

The Commission on Public School Personnel Policies, a private group, noted in a recent booklet on teacher education: "In June of 1971, 16,325 graduates of Ohio colleges and universities were recommended to the Ohio State Board of Education for certification. In the following fall, only 6,675 or 41 per cent of these newly certified teachers were employed in the state's elementary and secondary schools.

"Further, we are now faced with an oversupply of certified teachers at a time when school enrollments are projected to drop off slightly."

Dr. Essex said, "The need for a revision of teacher education has been apparent for some time, but the time was not at hand. Now, we think, it is."

The state is demanding from Ohio's 53 institutions training teachers more rigid and modern standards. "Only those colleges or universities committed to the professionalization and improvement of teaching can be considered worthy of approval," said Robert Bowers, assistant state superintendent of education for instruction.

State education officials are on a long-range round of visits to teacher training schools. Central State University was the latest.

Almost certainly, Ohio will have to spend more money training its teachers under the new concepts. "Teacher education has been a punching bag," said Dr. Kevin Ryan of the University of Chicago, the educator who did an exhaustive survey for the Cleveland-based Commission on Public School Personnel.

"It costs $40,000 to train a veterinarian, but only $5,000 to train a teacher," said Ryan.

One major change will be in the contacts students have with children. Now student contacts with children come late in their college training. In the future, students will find out early if they have the ability to handle children, or if after meeting the kids they really want to be teachers.

"One of the striking characteristics of the institutions in which the teachers of our young people are prepared is that in them one rarely hears a child's voice," Ryan's report noted.

Around the close of the first year for many a new teacher both teaching as a career and children pall. "It's called the curve of disenchantment," said Dr. Ryan. "The honeymoon is over. The teacher tends to become hostile, has a sense of failure, feels it's hopeless to survive and becomes more and more authoritative."

That's just one problem to be solved at college, in part by earlier contacts with kids and in part by making the College of Education much harder to enter.

Dr. Ryan's report recommends many sweeping changes, and the state is moving toward less sweeping changes, but change there will be, the experts insisted.

The surest change appeared to be the kind of on-the-job training Mentor and Toledo school systems now do.

"Few school systems provide adequate opportunities for rebuilding skills or refreshing knowledge after the teacher is hired and assigned to a classroom," noted the Commission on Public School Personnel.

"Fewer still are the school districts that provide systematic programs of professional growth for their faculties. It is estimated that in the state of Ohio during 1971-1972 an average of less than one per cent of school districts' budgets was allocated for professional growth of teachers."

"One major city allocated $7 per faculty member for professional growth activities in 1970-1971, and even that token amount was cut from the budget for 1971-1972."

The state training center proposed by the Department of Education is aimed at changing that picture.

Hungry Children Get Merry Yule

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — A Hamilton man and his wife, once aided by welfare programs, brought a merry Christmas to three hungry, cold, abandoned children.

"We've been on relief before," said the woman who learned of the children's plight by listening to the family's police radio monitor. "The people told us when they helped us out to just do a good deed for somebody else some day."

The couple, advised by police to remain anonymous because of fears that the children's mother might cause them trouble, has three children of its own at home. But both conceded it was "the best Christmas" they could recall.

The man and his wife said they heard police respond Sunday to a call that three children had been left unattended at a home here. The police weren't sure what they would do with the children.

The couple, in their 30s, called police to volunteer to take the children until authorities could determine the matter of custody. Police took the children, two three-year-old girls and a two-year-old boy, to the couple's home Sunday night and the youngsters enjoyed the first of three parties on Christmas Eve and Christmas.

Police said the children had apparently been alone for two days, were cold and hungry and only partially clothed, but were not sick and had not been harmed.

"They were dirty, cold and wet," the woman said, "and their little stomachs were empty. But these babies had a great Christmas and are happy.

"The only thing was, they were a little afraid to leave their home because they didn't think Santa Claus would know where they were going."

The man said that both his and his wife's family chipped in with clothing, food and toys. Members of the Hamilton police department donated a food basket, and a Cincinnati man, who had read about the children being left alone, drove here to give police a bag of toys to turn over to the children.

"I think the families on both sides, and the police deserve just as much credit as we do because of their response and warmth," the man said.

Police had not been able to locate the children's mother although she telephoned them Sunday night. Police said the children would probably have to be turned over to authorities today.

"We would do this again tomorrow," said the woman who helped bring the children a merry Christmas. "I would really love to keep them. They even started calling me 'mommy.'"

Arctic Air Pushes East

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Strong, gusty winds roared down the eastern slopes of the northern Rockies early today as a wedge of cold arctic air spread across the northern part of the Midwest.

Winds gusted up to 77 miles per hour at Livingston, Mont., and temperatures dipped below zero in Minnesota and North Dakota.

Rain soaked western Washington again, bringing the total at Quillayute to 6.4 inches during the 24 hours ending at 2 a.m. today.

Snow dusted the upper Great Lakes region and an occasional drizzle dampened areas from eastern Missouri to Ohio.

Clear skies prevailed from California to the central Plains and on the Gulf and south Atlantic coasts.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 5 at Grand Forks, N.D., to 65 at Key West, Fla., and McAllen, Tex.

The Victoria Cross, Britain's highest military honor, has been accorded to 94 Canadians.

Delinquent Youngsters Ask For Discipline And Guidance

CINCINNATI (AP) — More than 100 youngsters residing at facilities here for delinquent or neglected youths want their parents' guidance, discipline when necessary, and above all, their love.

"Ask me where I'm going; tell me what time to be home," the youths aged 12 to 18 said in part of a composite of their answers. "When you do this, I know you care about me, and that makes me feel 10 feet tall."

The youngsters replied to a question from Judge Benjamin Schwartz of Hamilton County Juvenile Court. He asked how they want to be treated by their parents.

"Don't try to dress or talk like me," they said. "I don't need you to be my friend. I need you to be my parent. I need you to be above me, to guide me, and to love me."

was never allowed to do that at your age. The world is changing and we are changing, too."

The youths said they worry when their parents drink too much, or smoke, or take pills, and it hurts them when their mothers and fathers don't live up to their—youthsters'—expectations.

But they added, "I don't expect you to be 'super-parents' and please don't expect me to be a 'super-kid.'"

"Please sit down and talk to me sometimes. When I do something wrong, tell me why it is wrong. Don't say, 'don't do that because I said so...'"

"Take me with you sometimes when you go out. Let's spend some time together. I want to be with you!"

Even Santa Searched

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The Christmas spirit didn't apply to anti-skyjack searches at Cleveland's Hopkins International Airport. Not even Santa Claus was an exception.

When the red-suited, bearded fellow showed up with a sack full of packages, security men went through the sack and made certain none contained contraband.

Just as the jolly fellow had said, however, all were gifts, and Santa was cleared to join the passengers on the United Air Lines flight to Washington, D.C.

"Santa" was really Edward Cline of Tiffin, Ohio. He and his wife were traveling in red Santa Claus suits as part of a surprise holiday visit to relatives in Washington.

Columbus Man Faces Murder Charges

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Police have charged Douglas Thompson, 37, of Columbus, with second-degree murder in the Christmas Eve shooting of John Mosley, 67, also of Columbus.

Police said the shooting on Columbus's east side apparently followed an argument over unpaid bills.

CHRISTMAS GIFTS—Circleville VFW members spent Saturday morning preparing and distributing 35 Christmas baskets to needy families, a tradition they have conducted many years. The baskets contained all the food items families would need for a lucious Christmas dinner. The VFW raised money to pay for most of the food, but donations were received from all Circleville banks, the Clark Srvce Station, Lindsey's Bake Shop, and Dean's Potato Chips Co.

Hungry Children Get Merry Yule

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — A Hamilton man and his wife, once aided by welfare programs, brought a merry Christmas to three hungry, cold, abandoned children.

"We've been on relief before," said the woman who learned of the children's plight by listening to the family's police radio monitor. "The people told us when they helped us out to just do a good deed for somebody else some day."

The couple, advised by police to remain anonymous because of fears that the children's mother might cause them trouble, has three children of its own at home. But both conceded it was "the best Christmas" they could recall.

The man and his wife said they heard police respond Sunday to a call that three children had been left unattended at a home here. The police weren't sure what they would do with the children.

The couple, in their 30s, called police to volunteer to take the children until authorities could determine the matter of custody. Police took the children, two three-year-old girls and a two-year-old boy, to the couple's home Sunday night and the youngsters enjoyed the first of three parties on Christmas Eve and Christmas.

Police said the children had apparently been alone for two days, were cold and hungry and only partially clothed, but were not sick and had not been harmed.

"They were dirty, cold and wet," the woman said, "and their little stomachs were empty. But these babies had a great Christmas and are happy.

"The only thing was, they were a little afraid to leave their home because they didn't think Santa Claus would know where they were going."

The man said that both his and his wife's family chipped in with clothing, food and toys. Members of the Hamilton police department donated a food basket, and a Cincinnati man, who had read about the children being left alone, drove here to give police a bag of toys to turn over to the children.

"I think the families on both sides, and the police deserve just as much credit as we do because of their response and warmth," the man said.

Police had not been able to locate the children's mother although she telephoned them Sunday night. Police said the children would probably have to be turned over to authorities today.

"We would do this again tomorrow," said the woman who helped bring the children a merry Christmas. I would really love to keep them. They even started calling me 'mommy.'"

Arctic Air Pushes East

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Strong, gusty winds roared down the eastern slopes of the northern Rockies early today as a wedge of cold arctic air spread across the northern part of the Midwest.

Winds gusted up to 77 miles per hour at Livingston, Mont., and temperatures dipped below zero in Minnesota and North Dakota.

Rain soaked western Washington again, bringing the total at Quillayute to 6.4 inches during the 24 hours ending at 2 a.m. today.

Snow dusted the upper Great Lakes region and an occasional drizzle dampened areas from eastern Missouri to Ohio.

Clear skies prevailed from California to the central Plains and on the Gulf and south Atlantic coasts.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 5 at Grand Forks, N.D., to 65 at Key West, Fla., and McAllen, Tex.

Delinquent Youngsters Ask For Discipline And Guidance

CINCINNATI (AP) — More than 100 youngsters residing at facilities here for delinquent or neglected youths want their parents' guidance, discipline when necessary, and above all, their love.

"Ask me where I'm going; tell me what time to be home," the youths aged 12 to 18 said in part of a composite of their answers. "When you do this, I know you care about me, and that makes me feel 10 feet tall."

The youngsters replied to a question from Judge Benjamin Schwartz of Hamilton County Juvenile Court. He asked how they want to be treated by their parents.

"Don't try to dress or talk like me," they said. "I don't need you to be my friend. I need you to be my parent. I need you to be above me, to guide me, and to love me."

The youths said they want their parents to stick by them in tough times, especially when they fail. They didn't feel their parents should be alarmed if they fail, but should be proud of them if they succeed.

"I need you to be forceful, yet understanding," they wrote. "I'm growing up, mom and dad...so, give me some responsibilities."

"Don't look back and say, 'Well, I

Railroad Strike

In 27th Day;

Longest For Line

NEW YORK (AP) — The continuing strike against the Long Island Rail Road today became the longest shutdown in the line's history.

Heading into its 27th day, the walkout initiated by nonoperating employees on the nation's largest commuter railroad surpassed a strike that lasted 26 days in 1960.

No contract talks were scheduled.

The 12 striking unions have refused to accept a 6 per cent wage increase for each year of a two-year contract, as recommended by a Presidential emergency board. They have demanded pay hikes comparable to those granted earlier this year to LIRR trainmen.

The railroad regularly carries about 90,000 commuters and 80,000 one-way riders a day.

was never allowed to do that at your age. The world is changing and we are changing, too."

The youths said they worry when their parents drink too much, or smoke, or take pills, and it hurts them when their mothers and fathers don't live up to their—youngsters'—expectations.

But they added, "I don't expect you to be 'super-parents' and please don't expect me to be a 'super-kid.'"

"Please sit down and talk to me sometimes. When I do something wrong, tell me why it is wrong. Don't say, 'don't do that because I said so...'"

"Take me with you sometimes when you go out. Let's spend some time together. I want to be with you!"

Even Santa Searched

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The Christmas spirit didn't apply to anti-skyjack searches at Cleveland's Hopkins International Airport. Not even Santa Claus was an exception.

When the red-suited, bearded fellow showed up with a sack full of packages, security men went through the sack and made certain none contained contraband.

Just as the jolly fellow had said, however, all were gifts, and Santa was cleared to join the passengers on the United Air Lines flight to Washington, D.C.

"Santa" was really Edward Cline of Tiffin, Ohio. He and his wife were traveling in red Santa Claus suits as part of a surprise holiday visit to relatives in Washington.

Columbus Man Faces Murder Charges

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Police have charged Douglas Thompson, 37, of Columbus, with second-degree murder in the Christmas Eve shooting of John Mosley, 67, also of Columbus.

Police said the shooting on Columbus's east side apparently followed an argument over unpaid bills.

CHRISTMAS GIFTS—Circleville VFW members spent Saturday morning preparing and distributing 35 Christmas baskets to needy families, a tradition they have conducted many years. The baskets contained all the food items families would need for a lucious Christmas dinner. The VFW raised money to pay for most of the food, but donations were received from all Circleville banks, the Clark Srvce Station, Lindsey's Bake Shop, and Dean's Potato Chips Co.

Washington, Pittsburgh Win Grid Tilts

By KEN RAPPAPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
The road to the Super Bowl now leads through the cities of Washington and Pittsburgh after a couple of sharp turns.
In fact, there was only one smooth ride in the first round of the National Football League playoffs over the holiday weekend.
"We're ready for the Dallas Cowboys," said Washington quarterback Billy Kilmer after directing a 16-3 victory over the Green Bay Packers Sunday in the only playoff game without last-minute drama.

The Cowboys were involved in one of the three Hollywood finishes—beating the San Francisco 49ers 30-28 with two touchdowns in the last two minutes of play on Saturday.
The other survivors who'll play next Sunday in the second round—the Pittsburgh Steelers and Miami Dolphins—also served up a healthy portion of dramatics in their victories.
The Steelers' success was the most spectacular. They won their game against the Oakland Raiders 13-7 on Saturday with a freak pass-deflection play in the last five seconds.
The Dolphins' victory was no freak, though. Earl Morrall directed an 80-yard touchdown drive, then Jim Kiick powered over for the winning score from the six with less than five minutes remaining, clinching a nervous 20-14 victory over the Cleveland Browns.

"When the chips were down, we just couldn't stop them," said Cleveland linebacker Dale Lindsey.
"Everything was laid out in front of us with eight minutes to go," said Miami Coach Don Shula. "We had to score a touchdown and we did what we had to do. This exemplifies what we did this year."
The Dolphins did something this year that no one else did—won 14 games in a row en route to the championship of the American Football Conference East. And they were supposed to be an impossible mission for the Browns, the "wild card" AFC team.

But the upstart Browns halted the Dolphins' strong running game and even took a 14-13 lead in the second half on Mike Phipps' touchdown pass before Morrall and Kiick took over.
In Pittsburgh, the AFC's Central Division champs appeared beaten by Oakland. The Raiders, champions in the AFC West, had a 7-6 lead on a late 30-yard scramble by Ken Stabler.
But with five seconds remaining and Pittsburgh down to its last chance, quarterback Terry Bradshaw threw a desperation pass that was deflected by receiver John Fuqua and Oakland defender Jack Tatum.
The football floated into the arms of Franco Harris, and the Steelers' rookie took it 42 yards for the game-winning touchdown.
"Unbelievable," said Pittsburgh Coach Chuck Noll.
"A miracle sent from heaven—what else can you say?" said Bradshaw.
"I guess you could say it was a little bit of luck and God was with us and everything like that," said Harris.
"When you have a feeling that this could be the last play of the season and that you could blow it, then that one more chance pulls it through for you."
Referee Fred Swearingen had to confer with his associates to confirm the legality of the pass. The Raiders protested that it was illegal, claiming Tatum didn't touch the ball, and instead, it was touched by two offensive receivers.
But the official verdict was "simultaneous" contact by Fuqua and Tatum, making the ball anybody's property.
Dallas trailed 28-13 with 16 minutes remaining when the NFC's wild-card team came back and beat San Francisco, the NFC West champ. Quarterback Roger Staubach, last year's Super Bowl hero, came off the bench in the last two minutes and threw a pair of TD passes.
"It was the best comeback I've ever seen a Dallas team make," said Cowboy Coach Tom Landry. "We just had to put everything together and we did. You can be in that situation 100 times and probably only win once."
Washington's famed "Over-The-Hill-Gang" defense stopped Green Bay's running attack cold Sunday. The Redskins, winners of the NFC East, never had an anxious moment with the Packers, who won the NFC's Central crown.
In next Sunday's action, the Redskins and Cowboys will contend for the National Football Conference title and the Dolphins and Steelers for the American. The winners meet in Super Bowl VII in Los Angeles on Jan. 14.

North Wins All-Star Clash; More Questions Than Ever

MIAMI (AP) — The football all-star games for college seniors are supposed to give the pro scouts an opportunity to evaluate potential draft picks, but the North-South game here Monday night might have provided more questions than answers.
Chuck Foreman, the University of Miami, Fla., running back-flanker who is expected to go early in the draft, was brilliant in the South's 10-17 losing cause as he gained 83 net yards in 22 carries and caught four passes for 60 yards.
Foreman, chosen the South's most valuable player, also made two critical fourth quarter fumbles. That's something that could dull his pro rating since he had his fumble troubles throughout the past season.
Rufus "Roadrunner" Ferguson, the 5-foot-6 Wisconsin star who is trying to prove he can play with the big guys, was picked the North's top player after scoring on a two-yard touchdown run which enabled the North to tie the score at 10-10 in the fourth quarter.

But Ferguson had only 55 net yards in 21 carries, an average of 2.6 yards a try, and left doubts about his ability to block onrushing linemen.
Arkansas quarterback Joe Ferguson kept the Rebels alive with his passing effort—17 of 33 for 205 yards and an 18-yard strike to flanker David Knight of William and Mary for the South's lone TD.
But Ferguson was also the victim of four interceptions. The Rebels' other quarterback, John Madeya of Louisville, hit only five of 16 passes for 43 yards and was intercepted once.
North passers didn't fare much better. Gary Danielson, hoping to follow in the footsteps of former Purdue quarterbacks such as Kansas City's Len Dawson. Cleveland's Mike Phipps and Miami's Bob Greise, completed only two of 13 passes for 37 yards. Temple's Doug Shobert was successful on nine of 11 tries for 105 yards, but his two misses were both interceptions.

The North, held to a 21-yard field goal by Michigan State's Marvin Roberts until Ferguson's run, got the winning tally on a 13 yard scamper by Arizona's Bob McCall after Foreman fumbled at midfield and Villanova's Kevin Reilly recovered.
The South, getting its other score on a 23-yard field goal by Alfred Reese of Tennessee State in the third quarter, marched back to the North three after McCall's score only to have Foreman fumble.
The Bucks Trip Kansas City; Win 104-99

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar lost a battle but the Milwaukee Bucks won the war.
And because of their 104-99 National Basketball Association victory over the Kansas City-Omaha Kings Monday night, the Bucks took some precious ground in the Midwest race.
Abdul-Jabbar, usually second to no man in the struggle for rebounds, was beaten 14-13 on the boards by the Kings' Sam Lacey.
Abdul-Jabbar, however, made up for second place in the rebound match by gaining first in scoring laurels. He wound up with a game-high 32 points, including 13 in the final quarter that helped seal the triumph.
The victory, coupled with Chicago's 115-108 loss to the Phoenix Suns, boosted Milwaukee's lead over the Bulls to 4½ games in the Midwest Division.
In the only other NBA games Monday night, the New York Knicks beat the Detroit Pistons 113-110 and the Portland Trail Blazers stopped the Seattle SuperSonics 116-113.
No games were played in the American Basketball Association Monday night.

Warfield Not Fooled

MIAMI (AP) — "They came in here trying to lull us to sleep, saying they were just happy to be here, all that," said Miami Dolphins wide receiver Paul Warfield after the Dolphins captured a 20-14 playoff victory over the Cleveland Browns Sunday.
"Well, back in 1964, when I was with the Browns and we played Baltimore for the world championship, we were in the same position as the Browns were today," continued Warfield. "All we heard all week was how great the Colts were. And we laid it on them 27-0."
It was a 35-yard pass reception by Warfield that got the Dolphins to the Cleveland 20-yard line after the Browns had taken a 14-13 lead in the fourth quarter.

And it was Warfield who drew an interference call on Browns linebacker Billy Andrews at the eight two plays later. On the next play, Jim Kiick ran through a huge hole opened up by right tackle Norm Evans and left guard Bob Kuechenberg for the winning score.
The Browns appeared on the verge of going in for another score with 1:15 left in the game when quarterback Mike Phipps led them to the Miami 35 only to suffer his fifth interception of the game.
"Overall, we're very pleased," said Browns Coach Nick Skorich. "I knew we were playing the best and felt our defense was superb. Unfortunately, we made the big mistakes offensively and their defense came up with the big plays."

Sarkkinen Lists Greats

PASADENA (AP)—Three teams pop into Esco Sarkkinen's mind when the Ohio State scout of nearly three decades thinks of the greatest college football squads he's seen.
Sarkkinen, just completing his 27th season with the Buckeyes, prefers to think of eras rather than teams when he talks about the great ones.

"I would say the 1947-48 Michigan team, Michigan State of the mid-60s and the three Ohio State teams of Rex Kern and company," said Sarkkinen.
He refuses to put top-ranked Southern California which plays Ohio State in the Rose Bowl New Year's day, in the same class for one reason.
"This has to rank with John McKay's finest, but it's only for one season, not two or three years, like those others," he explained.
Sarkkinen looked at his top three years a little more while relaxing in the team's hotel headquarters on an off day—Christmas.
"The Michigan team had trick-type plays," he said. "They could hit you with so many different offensive patterns."
Of the Michigan State squads, he said, "They had perhaps the finest defensive talent the Big 10 has ever seen. Players such as Bubba Smith and George Webster are once in a lifetime."
Kern led Ohio State to a 27-2 record in three years, including a victory over Southern Cal in the 1969 Rose Bowl.

The Dolphins did something this year that no one else did—won 14 games in a row en route to the championship of the American Football Conference East. And they were supposed to be an impossible mission for the Browns, the "wild card" AFC team.

But the upstart Browns halted the Dolphins' strong running game and even took a 14-13 lead in the second half on Mike Phipps' touchdown pass before Morrall and Kiick took over.

In Pittsburgh, the AFC's Central Division champs appeared beaten by Oakland. The Raiders, champions in the AFC West, had a 7-6 lead on a late 30-yard scramble by Ken Stabler.

But with five seconds remaining and Pittsburgh down to its last chance, quarterback Terry Bradshaw threw a desperation pass that was deflected by receiver John Fuqua and Oakland defender Jack Tatum.

The football floated into the arms of Franco Harris, and the Steelers' rookie took it 42 yards for the game-winning touchdown.

"Unbelievable," said Pittsburgh Coach Chuck Noll.

"A miracle sent from heaven—what else can you say?" said Bradshaw.

"I guess you could say it was a little bit of luck and God was with us and everything like that," said Harris.

"When you have a feeling that this could be the last play of the season and that you could blow it, then that one more chance pulls it through for you."

Referee Fred Swearingen had to confer with his associates to confirm the legality of the pass. The Raiders protested that it was illegal, claiming Tatum didn't touch the ball, and instead, it was touched by two offensive receivers.

But the official verdict was "simultaneous" contact by Fuqua and Tatum, making the ball anybody's property.

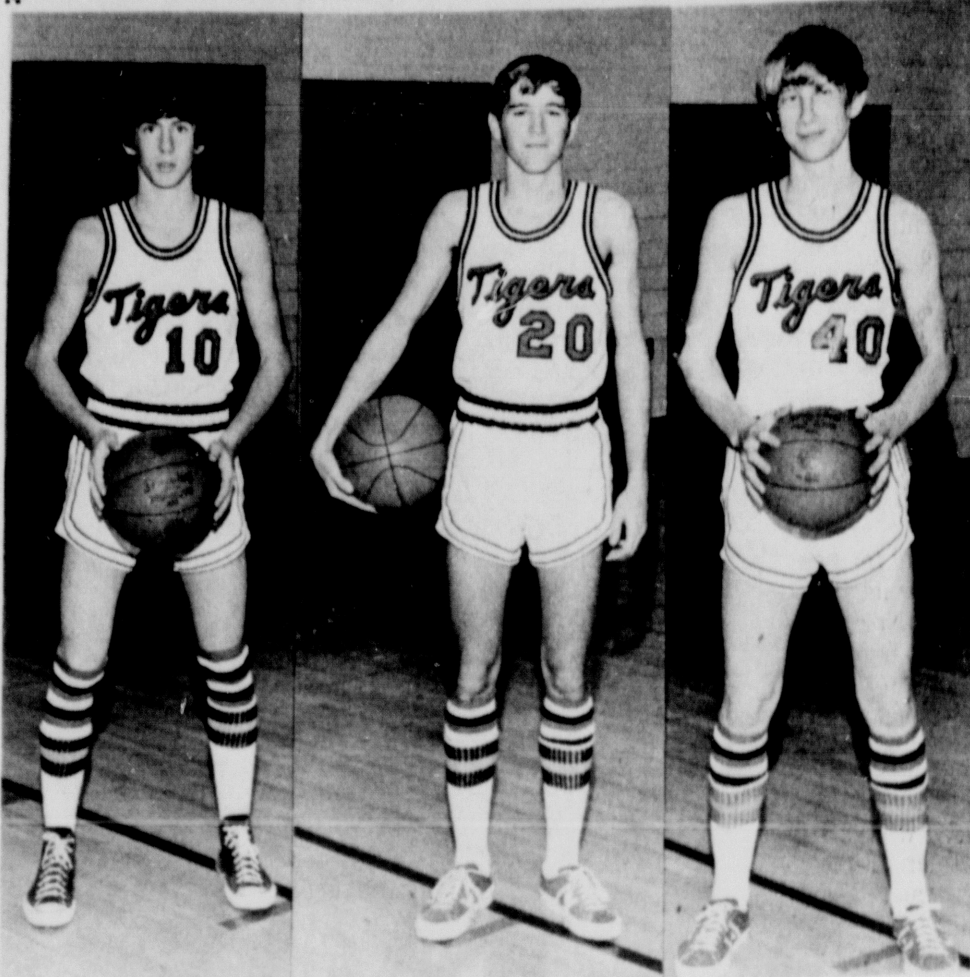

Dallas trailed 28-13 with 16 minutes remaining when the NFC's wild-card team came back and beat San Francisco, the NFC West champ. Quarterback Roger Staubach, last year's Super Bowl hero, came off the bench in the last two minutes and threw a pair of TD passes.

"It was the best comeback I've ever seen a Dallas team make," said Cowboy Coach Tom Landry. "We just had to put everything together and we did. You can be in that situation 100 times and probably only win once."

Washington's famed "Over-The-Hill-Gang" defense stopped Green Bay's running attack cold Sunday. The Redskins, winners of the NFC East, never had an anxious moment with the Packers, who won the NFC's Central crown.

In next Sunday's action, the Redskins and Cowboys will contend for the National Football Conference title and the Dolphins and Steelers for the American. The winners meet in Super Bowl VII in Los Angeles on Jan. 14.

North Wins All-Star Clash; More Questions Than Ever

MIAMI (AP) — The football all-star games for college seniors are supposed to give the pro scouts an opportunity to evaluate potential draft picks, but the North-South game here Monday night might have provided more questions than answers.

Chuck Foreman, the University of Miami, Fla., running back-flanker who is expected to go early in the draft, was brilliant in the South's 10-17 losing cause as he gained 83 net yards in 22 carries and caught four passes for 60 yards.

Foreman, chosen the South's most valuable player, also made two critical fourth quarter fumbles. That's something that could dull his pro rating since he had his fumble troubles throughout the past season.

Rufus "Roadrunner" Ferguson, the 5-foot-6 Wisconsin star who is trying to prove he can play with the big guys, was picked the North's top player after scoring on a two-yard touchdown run which enabled the North to tie the score at 10-10 in the fourth quarter.

But Ferguson had only 55 net yards in 21 carries, an average of 2.6 yards a try, and left doubts about his ability to block onrushing linemen.

Arkansas quarterback Joe Ferguson kept the Rebels alive with his passing effort—17 of 33 for 205 yards and an 18-yard strike to flanker David Knight of William and Mary for the South's lone TD.

But Ferguson was also the victim of four interceptions. The Rebels' other quarterback, John Madeya of Louisville, hit only five of 16 passes for 43 yards and was intercepted once.

North passers didn't fare much better. Gary Danielson, hoping to follow in the footsteps of former Purdue quarterbacks such as Kansas City's Len Dawson, Cleveland's Mike Phipps and Miami's Bob Greise, completed only two of 13 passes for 37 yards. Temple's Doug Shobert was successful on nine of 11 tries for 105 yards, but his two misses were both interceptions.

The North, held to a 21-yard field goal by Michigan State's Marvin Roberts until Ferguson's run, got the winning tally on a 13 yard scamper by Arizona's Bob McCall after Foreman fumbled at midfield and Villanova's Kevin Reilly recovered.

The South, getting its other score on a 23-yard field goal by Alfred Reese of Tennessee State in the third quarter, marched back to the North three after McCall's score only to have Foreman fumble.

Bucks Trip Kansas City; Win 104-99

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar lost a battle but the Milwaukee Bucks won the war.

And because of their 104-99 National Basketball Association victory over the Kansas City-Omaha Kings Monday night, the Bucks took some precious ground in the Midwest race.

Abdul-Jabbar, usually second to no man in the struggle for rebounds, was beaten 14-13 on the boards by the Kings' Sam Lacey.

Abdul-Jabbar, however, made up for second place in the rebound match by gaining first in scoring laurels. He wound up with a game-high 32 points, including 13 in the final quarter that helped seal the triumph.

The victory, coupled with Chicago's 115-108 loss to the Phoenix Suns, boosted Milwaukee's lead over the Bulls to 4½ games in the Midwest Division.

In the only other NBA games Monday night, the New York Knicks beat the Detroit Pistons 113-110 and the Portland Trail Blazers stopped the Seattle SuperSonics 116-113.

No games were played in the American Basketball Association Monday night.

Warfield Not Fooled

MIAMI (AP) — "They came in here trying to lull us to sleep, saying they were just happy to be here, all that," said Miami Dolphins wide receiver Paul Warfield after the Dolphins captured a 20-14 playoff victory over the Cleveland Browns Sunday.

"Well, back in 1964, when I was with the Browns and we played Baltimore for the world championship, we were in the same position as the Browns were today," continued Warfield. "All we heard all week was how great the Colts were. And we laid it on them 27-0."

It was a 35-yard pass reception by Warfield that got the Dolphins to the Cleveland 20-yard line after the Browns had taken a 14-13 lead in the fourth quarter.

And it was Warfield who drew an interference call on Browns linebacker Billy Andrews at the eight two plays later. On the next play, Jim Kiick ran through a huge hole opened up by right tackle Norm Evans and left guard Bob Kuechenberg for the winning score.

The Browns appeared on the verge of going in for another score with 1:15 left in the game when quarterback Mike Phipps led them to the Miami 35 only to suffer his fifth interception of the game.

"Overall, we're very pleased," said Browns Coach Nick Skorich. "I knew we were playing the best and felt our defense was superb. Unfortunately, we made the big mistakes offensively and their defense came up with the big plays."

Sarkkinen Lists Greats

PASADENA (AP)—Three teams pop into Esco Sarkkinen's mind when the Ohio State scout of nearly three decades thinks of the greatest college football squads he's seen.

Sarkkinen, just completing his 27th season with the Buckeyes, prefers to think of eras rather than teams when he talks about the great ones.

"I would say the 1947-48 Michigan team, Michigan State of the mid-60s and the three Ohio State teams of Rex Kern and company," said Sarkkinen.

He refuses to put top-ranked Southern California which plays Ohio State in the Rose Bowl New Year's day, in the same class for one reason.

"This has to rank with John McKay's finest, but it's only for one season, not two or three years, like those others," he explained.

Sarkkinen looked at his top three years a little more while relaxing in the team's hotel headquarters on an off day—Christmas.

"The Michigan team had trick-type plays," he said. "They could hit you with so many different offensive patterns."

Of the Michigan State squads, he said, "They had perhaps the finest defensive talent the Big 10 has ever seen. Players such as Bubba Smith and George Webster are once in a lifetime."

Kern led Ohio State to a 27-2 record in three years, including a victory over Southern Cal in the 1969 Rose Bowl.

Virginia Red Wings Trip Cincinnati, 4-0

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Cincinnati Swords 13-game streak without a loss was broken Monday when the Virginia Red Wings beat the Swords 4-0 in Norfolk.

If the Swords had won they could have tied the American Hockey League record of 11 consecutive wins, set by the Cleveland Barons in the 1943-44 season.

UCLA Tops Cage Ratings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

UCLA continues unbeaten on the basketball court and undisputed as the nation's No. 1 college team in the weekly Associated Press poll.

The Bruins ran their winning streak to 51 games with two victories last week and, as a result, swept all 25 first-place votes from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

With the 500 points, UCLA, 6-0, continued to hold a firm grip on first place ahead of Maryland, Marquette, North Carolina State, Minnesota and Long Beach State.

The top six schools all stayed in place after keeping their perfect records intact through last week's action.

Second-ranked Maryland, 5-0, had 383 points, while third-ranked Marquette, 5-0, polled 339.

Fourth-ranked North Carolina State, 8-0, was accorded 310 points; No. 5 Minnesota, 6-0, had 286 and No. 5 Long Beach State, 8-0, the busiest of the front-runners with four victories last week, garnered 282.

Missouri, 8-0, took over the No. 7 position as the rest of the Top Ten underwent a shakeup. The Tigers, 10th last week, moved into the spot held last week by Florida State.

Penn was the new No. 8 team, replacing Southwest Louisiana, which dropped to No. 9. Vanderbilt closed out a Top Ten that showed a rank of undefeated teams and a total record of 65-0.

Along with Florida State, Indiana also dropped out of the Top Ten. Ninth last week, Indiana plunged six places to No. 15 after a loss to South Carolina.

The remaining ranked teams included: No. 11 North Carolina; No. 12 Florida State; No. 13 Houston; No. 14 Brigham Young; No. 16 Kansas State;

No. 17 Providence; No. 18 Alabama; No. 19 Oklahoma and No. 20 San Francisco.

New members of the Top Twenty this week are Alabama and San Francisco.

The Top Twenty, with firstplace votes in parentheses, season records and total points. Points tabulated on basis of 20-16-14-12-10-9-etc.:

1. UCLA (25) 6-0500 2. Maryland 5-0383 3. Marquette 5-0339 4. N.C. State 8-0310 5. Minnesota 6-0286 6. Long Beach St. 8-0282 7. Missouri 8-0178 8. Penn 5-0175 9. SW La. 6-0127 10. NEW YORK (AP) — American Christians of nearly every kind have started their most broadly cooperative venture in modern times—to try to strengthen the commitment of this generation to Christ.

30 Korean Seamen Lost

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — The search continues today for 30 Korean seamen missing since Sunday when their freighter apparently broke up in heavy North Pacific seas 1,100 miles off the Oregon coast.

Wreckage believed to be part of the missing 12,000-ton Pacover—including four overturned lifeboats, a large oil slick and debris—was spotted late Monday. But the Coast Guard said there was no sign of life.

Seaman Don Mills at Coast Guard headquarters in Juneau said the ship, under Liberian registry, carried only four lifeboats.

The search for the Pacover started after the ship radioed a distress call saying her 30 crewmen were abandoning ship.

Shipping agents said the 570-foot Pacover was heading for Japan with a load of coal from Roberts Bank, B.C.

Russians Defeat Seattle Totems, 9-4

SEATTLE (AP) — The touring Russian national hockey team, paced by Alexandr Yakushev's three goals, exploded for four goals in the final period and defeated the Seattle Totems of the Western Hockey League 9-4 Monday night.

The Russians got off to a fast start in what looked like a romp and led the Totems 3-0 after the first 10 minutes of the game. But Seattle then picked up two goals and left the ice at the end of the period trailing 3-2.

New England Whalers Smash Raiders, 8-2

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS There's no place like the road for the holidays. Ask Camille Henry, coach of the New York Raiders.

"You know, it's an advantage to play on the road on Christmas ... you can't get fat and sassy from being home with your family," he says.

"He had every right to be upset Monday after his Raiders were eaten alive 8-2 by the New England Whalers in a runaway World Hockey Association game.

Ken Rosewall Beaten By Karl Meiler

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Karl Meiler of West Germany, a virtual unknown, upset top-seeded Ken Rosewall 6-2, 6-3, 6-2 in the second round Monday of the $53,500 Australian Open men's tennis championships.

In another surprise, Bob Giltman of Australia ousted countryman Mal Anderson, the No. 3 seed, 6-7, 6-2, 6-2, 7-6.

Curacao, Aruba, and Bonaire in the Caribbean have inadequate rainfall that quickly drains away from the islands' porous soil, the National Geographic Society says. The islands must distill their fresh water from the sea.

effort, began on Christmas Day with the first of a two-week period of noontime prayers for its success, involves both Roman Catholics and most all of Protestantism.

Called "Key 73," its theme is: "Calling Our Continent to Christ." Taking part are fundamentalists, conservatives, liberals, moderates and small and large denominations that previously have shunned ecumenical activities, such as the big Southern Baptist Convention and Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, as well as ecumenical-minded, mainline denominations.

"It is the widest, joint effort in the history of North American Christianity," said the Rev. Joe Hale, of Nashville, Tenn., United Methodist director of ecumenical evangelism and a member of the "Key 73" executive committee.

"It has groups working together that have never worked together before. It may do more to build a united Christian front than anything we've ever done."

A central factor drawing such inclusive participation is that each denomination and organization may take part in ways, and to the extent, it chooses, so as not to compromise its position or practice.

It offers "a new style of participation," said the Rev. Dr. Thomas F. Zimmerman of Springfield, Mo., general superintendent of the Assemblies of God and chairman of the "Key 73" executive committee.

However, the five years of planning has been on a cooperative basis and various joint endeavors, both nationally and locally, are contemplated. Altogether, about 150 denominations and groups are formally participating.

They range from major, historic bodies such as the Episcopal Church, numerous Roman Catholic dioceses and the United Church of Canada to black denominations, Pentecostal groups and evangelistic organizations such as Youth for Christ and Billy Graham's association.

The plan was sparked by a 1967 interdenominational meeting arranged by Baptist theologian Carl F. H. Henry, former editor of Christianity Today.

Quake Mars Christmas

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Christmas was a grim vigil for 10-year-old Cesar Abella, the son of Nicaragua's finance minister.

He doesn't know if his parents and sister escaped the devastation of an earthquake that virtually destroyed Managua.

Cesar, visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Goin of Vero Beach, spent Christmas Day carefully monitoring each radio and television newscast, hoping for some word of his family.

A huge pile of Christmas gifts, a table full of food and playmates were all but ignored as the boy considered the possibility that he and an 8-year-old sister visiting in San Francisco may be the only ones left in their family.

"I'm sure they will be OK ... We'll hear from them, I'm just sure," he said.

Cesar arrived here Nov. 27 and was scheduled to leave next month. His sister, Mayleeng, is with relatives in San Francisco.

Handsome Dan, a bulldog adopted by Yale undergraduates in 1890, became college football's first mascot.

Year-Long Evangelistic Effort Planned By Groups

NEW YORK (AP) — American Christians of nearly every kind have started their most broadly cooperative venture in modern times—to try to strengthen the commitment of this generation to Christ.

30 Korean Seamen Lost

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — The search continues today for 30 Korean seamen missing since Sunday when their freighter apparently broke up in heavy North Pacific seas 1,100 miles off the Oregon coast.

Wreckage believed to be part of the missing 12,000-ton Pacover—including four overturned lifeboats, a large oil slick and debris—was spotted late Monday. But the Coast Guard said there was no sign of life.

Seaman Don Mills at Coast Guard headquarters in Juneau said the ship, under Liberian registry, carried only four lifeboats.

The search for the Pacover started after the ship radioed a distress call saying her 30 crewmen were abandoning ship.

Shipping agents said the 570-foot Pacover was heading for Japan with a load of coal from Roberts Bank, B.C.

Russians Defeat Seattle Totems, 9-4

SEATTLE (AP) — The touring Russian national hockey team, paced by Alexandr Yakushev's three goals, exploded for four goals in the final period and defeated the Seattle Totems of the Western Hockey League 9-4 Monday night.

The Russians got off to a fast start in what looked like a romp and led the Totems 3-0 after the first 10 minutes of the game. But Seattle then picked up two goals and left the ice at the end of the period trailing 3-2.

New England Whalers Smash Raiders, 8-2

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS There's no place like the road for the holidays. Ask Camille Henry, coach of the New York Raiders.

"You know, it's an advantage to play on the road on Christmas ... you can't get fat and sassy from being home with your family," he says.

He had every right to be upset Monday after his Raiders were eaten alive 8-2 by the New England Whalers in a runaway World Hockey Association game.

Ken Rosewall Beaten By Karl Meiler

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Karl Meiler of West Germany, a virtual unknown, upset top-seeded Ken Rosewall 6-2, 6-3, 6-2 in the second round Monday of the $53,500 Australian Open men's tennis championships.

In another surprise, Bob Giltman of Australia ousted countryman Mal Anderson, the No. 3 seed, 6-7, 6-2, 6-2, 7-6.

Curacao, Aruba, and Bonaire in the Caribbean have inadequate rainfall that quickly drains away from the islands' porous soil, the National Geographic Society says. The islands must distill their fresh water from the sea.

effort, began on Christmas Day with the first of a two-week period of noontime prayers for its success, involves both Roman Catholics and most all of Protestantism.

Called "Key 73," its theme is: "Calling Our Continent to Christ." Taking part are fundamentalists, conservatives, liberals, moderates and small and large denominations that previously have shunned ecumenical activities, such as the big Southern Baptist Convention and Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, as well as ecumenical-minded, mainline denominations.

"It is the widest, joint effort in the history of North American Christianity," said the Rev. Joe Hale, of Nashville, Tenn., United Methodist director of ecumenical evangelism and a member of the "Key 73" executive committee.

"It has groups working together that have never worked together before. It may do more to build a united Christian front than anything we've ever done."

A central factor drawing such inclusive participation is that each denomination and organization may take part in ways, and to the extent, it chooses, so as not to compromise its position or practice.

It offers "a new style of participation," said the Rev. Dr. Thomas F. Zimmerman of Springfield, Mo., general superintendent of the Assemblies of God and chairman of the "Key 73" executive committee.

However, the five years of planning has been on a cooperative basis and various joint endeavors, both nationally and locally, are contemplated. Altogether, about 150 denominations and groups are formally participating.

They range from major, historic bodies such as the Episcopal Church, numerous Roman Catholic dioceses and the United Church of Canada to black denominations, Pentecostal groups and evangelistic organizations such as Youth for Christ and Billy Graham's association.

The plan was sparked by a 1967 interdenominational meeting arranged by Baptist theologian Carl F. H. Henry, former editor of Christianity Today.

Quake Mars Christmas

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Christmas was a grim vigil for 10-year-old Cesar Abella, the son of Nicaragua's finance minister.

He doesn't know if his parents and sister escaped the devastation of an earthquake that virtually destroyed Managua.

Cesar, visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Goin of Vero Beach, spent Christmas Day carefully monitoring each radio and television newscast, hoping for some word of his family.

A huge pile of Christmas gifts, a table full of food and playmates were all but ignored as the boy considered the possibility that he and an 8-year-old sister visiting in San Francisco may be the only ones left in their family.

"I'm sure they will be OK ... We'll hear from them, I'm just sure," he said.

Cesar arrived here Nov. 27 and was scheduled to leave next month. His sister, Mayleeng, is with relatives in San Francisco.

Handsome Dan, a bulldog adopted by Yale undergraduates in 1890, became college football's first mascot.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day to think in terms of what you can do for others. Let them know you are most cooperative and will accept their help even though your companions expect support from you also. Engage in activities that are allied with romance, art, music and culture. Be happy.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You can comprehend now what good friends expect of you, particularly the one of whom you are most fond. Show more consideration and devotion to your mate. Avoid one who has an eye on your assets. Take health treatments. Be wise.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Get your routine work done more efficiently and derive greater benefits. Try to please co-workers and production speeds up. A study of scientific subjects is wise and can be helpful in the future.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Think along more romantic lines and make your life more pleasant and delightful. Cooperation is the keynote now. Invite good friends to a recreational activity you enjoy. Make them happy.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Get your home improved so that there is more comfort and order there. Your guests will be delighted. Invite friends that you truly admire. Conversations can prove very enlightening.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) A kind word of encouragement can make those you like much happier and bring about a wonderful harmony at home. Take care of important business correspondence early in the day. Come to the point.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You can visit with an expert and work out financial matters very well now. Get your surroundings improved. Get rid of any clutter that slows down your regular routine. Take health treatments.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) If you use that magnetic smile more, you find you can get others to go along with your ideas easily. This is particularly true where the personal side of life is concerned. Make new future arrangements.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have a penchant for investigation and can enjoy this during the day, but the evening should be relegated to the romantic. Talk with an expert the best ways to expand in business. Be active.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Contact friends who can be helpful to you. Engage in group affairs that can prove to be interesting and enlightening. Avoid one who is bent on gossip. A good time to catch up on your reading.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Contact a bigwig who can be helpful to you where a pet project is concerned and get the backing you need. Keep busy at civic matters. Take it easy tonight and renew your vigor.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) An ideal day to obtain all that information you need to put your project into operation properly. This is a good time for new beginnings and expansion in various directions. Avoid tangents.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You have been procrastinating about handling responsibilities of late, so get busy now and put them behind you quickly. Being thoughtful with mate brings better rapport. Happiness can be yours.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those charming young people with a very kind nature. The proper educational training will bring out the fine intellect in this chart and the life can be a successful one, flowing along the right channels. Any profession that requires precision is fine here, particularly in the field of law. Be sure to give religious training early in life.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Views On TV And Radio

NEW YORK (AP) — The traditional Twelve Days of Christmas usually start on Christmas Eve and extend through the Epiphany. Television reviewers probably would report the period's events this way:

On the first day of Christmas, my TV gave to me a Partridge family in a pear tree. They looked silly up there, but that's television. On the second day of Christmas, my TV gave to me two turtle doves—Bridget and Bernie—and the Partridges in a pear tree. On the third day of Christmas, my TV gave to me three French hens—they said "bon jour" and did barrel rolls on the Wide World of Sports—two turtle doves and the Partridges in a pear tree. On the fourth day of Christmas, my TV gave to me four calling birds, all on Dialing for Dollars, three French hens, two turtle doves and the Partridges in a pear tree. On the fifth day of Christmas, my TV gave to me five golden rings. It appeared neither Maude's fourth nor fifth marriage had worked out and she had sworn off wedding bands for the season. On the sixth day of Christmas, my TV gave to me six geese a-laying. They labored mightily, but television still produced more eggs than they were able to emit. On the seventh day of Christmas, my TV gave to me seven swans a-swimming. They attacked Mark Spitz as he swam toward another commercial. A spokesman had no explanation for it. On the eighth day of Christmas, my TV gave to me eight maids a-milking. They all said they were pulling for the Waltons.

On the ninth day of Christmas, my TV gave to me nine drummers drumming. They were identified as Buddy Rich.

On the tenth day of Christmas, my TV gave to me 10 pipers piping. A spokesman said this was because the Federal Communications Commission had banned cigarette advertising.

On the 11th day of Christmas, my TV gave to me 11 ladies dancing. My wife immediately gave them the bum's rush.

On the 12th day of Christmas, my TV gave to me 12 lords a-leaping. A spokesman identified them as network vice presidents who backed shows that were canceled in midseason.

It was a messy Christmas, what with the Partridges, two turtle doves, three French hens, four calling birds, five golden rings, six geese a-laying, seven swans a-swimming, eight maids a-milking, nine drummers drumming, 10 pipers piping, 11 ladies dancing and 12 lords a-leaping.

Is there any way to exchange them?

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day to think in terms of what you can do for others. Let them know you are most cooperative and will accept their help even though your companions expect support from you also. Engage in activities that are allied with romance, art, music and culture. Be happy.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You can comprehend now what good friends expect of you, particularly the one of whom you are most fond. Show more consideration and devotion to your mate. Avoid one who has an eye on your assets. Take health treatments. Be wise.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Get your routine work done more efficiently and derive greater benefits. Try to please co-workers and production speeds up. A study of scientific subjects is wise and can be helpful in the future.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Think along more romantic lines and make your life more pleasant and delightful. Cooperation is the keynote now. Invite good friends to a recreational activity you enjoy. Make them happy.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Get your home improved so that there is more comfort and order there. Your guests will be delighted. Invite friends that you truly admire. Conversations can prove very enlightening.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) A kind word of encouragement can make those you like much happier and bring about a wonderful harmony at home. Take care of important business correspondence early in the day. Come to the point.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You can visit with an expert and work out financial matters very well now. Get your surroundings improved. Get rid of any clutter that slows down your regular routine. Take health treatments.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) If you use that magnetic smile more, you find you can get others to go along with your ideas easily. This is particularly true where the personal side of life is concerned. Make new future arrangements.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have a penchant for investigation and can enjoy this during the day, but the evening should be relegated to the romantic. Talk with an expert the best ways to expand in business. Be active.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Contact friends who can be helpful to you. Engage in group affairs that can prove to be interesting and enlightening. Avoid one who is bent on gossip. A good time to catch up on your reading.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Contact a bigwig who can be helpful to you where a pet project is concerned and get the backing you need. Keep busy at civic matters. Take it easy tonight and renew your vigor.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) An ideal day to obtain all that information you need to put your project into operation properly. This is a good time for new beginnings and expansion in various directions. Avoid tangents.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You have been procrastinating about handling responsibilities of late, so get busy now and put them behind you quickly. Being thoughtful with mate brings better rapport. Happiness can be yours.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those charming young people with a very kind nature. The proper educational training will bring out the fine intellect in this child and the life can be a successful one, flowing along the right channels. Any profession that requires precision is fine here, particularly in the field of law. Be sure to give religious training early in life.
"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Views On TV And Radio

NEW YORK (AP) — The traditional Twelve Days of Christmas usually start on Christmas Eve and extend through the Epiphany. Television reviewers probably would report the period's events this way:

On the first day of Christmas, my TV gave to me a Partridge family in a pear tree. They looked silly up there, but that's television.

On the second day of Christmas, my TV gave to me two turtle doves—Bridget and Bernie—and the Partridges in a pear tree.

On the third day of Christmas, my TV gave to me three French hens—they said "bon jour" and did barrel rolls on the Wide World of Sports—two turtle doves and the Partridges in a pear tree.

On the fourth day of Christmas, my TV gave to me four calling birds, all on Dialing for Dollars, three French hens, two turtle doves and the Partridges in a pear tree.

On the fifth day of Christmas, my TV gave to me five golden rings. It appeared neither Maude's fourth nor fifth marriage had worked out and she had sworn off wedding bands for the season.

On the sixth day of Christmas, my TV gave to me six geese a-laying. They labored mightily, but television still produced more eggs than they were able to emit.

On the seventh day of Christmas, my TV gave to me seven swans a-swimming. They attacked Mark Spitz as he swam toward another commercial. A spokesman had no explanation for it.

On the eighth day of Christmas, my TV gave to me eight maids a-milking. They all said they were pulling for the Waltons.

On the ninth day of Christmas, my TV gave to me nine drummers drumming. They were identified as Buddy Rich.

On the tenth day of Christmas, my TV gave to me 10 pipers piping. A spokesman said this was because the Federal Communications Commission had banned cigarette advertising.

On the 11th day of Christmas, my TV gave to me 11 ladies dancing. My wife immediately gave them the bum's rush.

On the 12th day of Christmas, my TV gave to me 12 lords a-leaping. A spokesman identified them as network vice presidents who backed shows that were canceled in midseason.

It was a messy Christmas, what with the Partridges, two turtle doves, three French hens, four calling birds, five golden rings, six geese a-laying, seven swans a-swimming, eight maids a-milking, nine drummers drumming, 10 pipers piping, 11 ladies dancing and 12 lords a-leaping.

Is there any way to exchange them?

Long Christmas Holiday At End

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A long Christmas weekend ended today after cease-fires in Vietnam and Northern Ireland, more than 540 dead in U.S. traffic accidents and appeals for peace from religious leaders.

U.S. bombing of North Vietnam resumed this afternoon, Saigon time, after a 36-hour halt for Christmas. U.S. officials in Saigon said President Nixon had hoped the halt would bring the North Vietnamese back to the negotiating table, but it didn't.

Both the South Vietnamese and Viet Cong declared 24-hour cease-fires, but each side charged the other with numerous violations. The Saigon command said the Communists launched 58 attacks during the truce periods in which 45 South Vietnamese and 60 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong were killed.

Northern Ireland had one of its quieter weekends, with only three minor shooting incidents Sunday night in which no one was hurt. The Roman Catholics of the Irish Republican Army proclaimed a three-day cease-fire, and Protestant extremists also were quiet.

Pope Paul VI, giving his blessing to a crowd of 15,000 in St. Peter's Square, used 16 languages—including Vietnamese—to wish the world "a blessed Christmas in the joy and peace of Christ." The Roman Catholic primate of Poland, Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski, speaking at Warsaw's St. John's Cathedral, called on America's Catholic bishops to make "utmost efforts to stop the bloodshed of innocent children and people" in Vietnam.

In a traditional Christmas broadcast, Queen Elizabeth II called on her subjects to pray for the people of Northern Ireland. "May tolerance and understanding release the people from terror and put gladness in the place of fear," she said.

The Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Michael Ramsey, told 1,500 people at Canterbury Cathedral that the message of Christmas must be to break the "vicious circle of fear" causing the violence in Northern Ireland and Vietnam.

President Nixon and his wife celebrated Christmas at their Key Biscayne, Fla., home and dined with their neighbor, C.G. "Bebe" Rebozo. The Nixons exchanged gifts in the morning, went for a ride on Rebozo's houseboat and talked by telephone with their daughters, Tricia and Julie, who spent the holiday with their husbands in Athens, Greece.

Amid the traditional gift giving, religious services and family feasts, government and military officials and Red Cross workers were busy assembling aid shipments for the earthquake sufferers in Managua, Nicaragua.

Some 15,000 Christmas pilgrims streamed out of Bethlehem where Jesus was born. They attended midnight services on Christmas Eve in the Church of the Nativity, in Manger Square and in Shepherds' Field. There were no terrorist attacks, and Israel's borders with her Arab neighbors were quiet.

For the first time since 1965, hundreds of thousands of West Berliners were going through the Berlin Wall for Christmas visits with relatives and friends in East Germany. But the traffic this year seemed somewhat smaller than in other years, probably because visiting rules were liberalized this year. Since June West Berliners have been allowed 30 visiting days a year in the East.

Food Requested For Nicaraguans

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Nicaragua's ruler says the survivors of the earthquake that devastated Managua need food, not medicine or blood plasma.

"We need food for the people," said Gen. Anastasio Somoza, the country's leader. He told foreign nations not to send any more medical supplies, that the supply was sufficient.

The quake Saturday destroyed about 75 per cent of Managua, a city of 300,000, and the toll was estimated at 5,000 to 10,000 dead, with 20,000 injured. Somoza said the country already was suffering from a drought and 250,000 people were unemployed.

Managua was ordered evacuated, and most of the survivors left. Officials said they would cut off relief food supplies to about 25,000 who refused to leave.

"We have to empty the area. We are afraid of an epidemic," said Gen. Luis Rodriguez Somoza, the relief coordinator. There was still no water or electricity in the city Monday and the smell of rotting bodies was heavy in the central area.

International relief operations have gone into high gear. President Nixon ordered "an all-out effort to provide all needed help to Nicaragua." CARE in New York said it had 700 tons of food available. The American Red Cross renewed its request for Americans to contribute money, not supplies.

Russian-U.S. Natural Gas Deal Delayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Conclusion of a $40 billion, 25-year pact to import Soviet natural gas into the United States will be delayed until the spring while the Nixon administration reviews whether it is needed, The Washington Post said today.

The pact was to have been signed this month.

The Post quoted high administration sources as saying both the government and the six U.S. companies promoting the prospective pact have cooled on the project.

Among the reasons are doubts that Siberian gas reserves are as large as the Russians claim and the refusal of the Soviet government to permit independent testing of the deposits.

In addition, the Post sources said, there were second thoughts about the high cost of the Soviet gas (about $1.50 per 1,000 cubic feet compared to the current U.S. price of 20 cents per 1,000 cubic feet) and about the national security impact of excessive U.S. reliance on Soviet Union gas.

Six American companies announced Nov. 3 they expected to sign an agreement before the end of 1972 on construction of a pipeline from Siberia to Murmansk on the Barents Sea. Another pipeline was to link Siberia with the Pacific Coast.

Natural gas is abundant in the Soviet Union and scarce in the United States, the world's largest consumer of the fuel. The Soviet Union has enough gas reserves to supply the United States for an estimated 30 years.

The administration hasn't ruled out Soviet gas imports, the Post source said, but cheaper gas may be obtained from Nigeria, Venezuela and other areas.

Money Paid For School Operation

State school subsidy payments received in Pickaway County for December totalled $159,759.24, according to State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson.

This allotment includes operating funds for Circleville, Logan Elm, Teays Valley and Westfall School Districts. In addition, a payment of $4,316.66 was made to the office of the Pickaway County Board of Education.

Payments made to the different districts were: Circleville City $66,920.11; Logan Elm Local $26,506.92; Teays Valley Local $39,068.04 and Westfall Local $27,264.17.

supplies departed hourly from MacDill Air Force Base in Florida. Army engineers with dump trucks, wreckers and bulldozers were flown in.
Carlos Giron Romero, head of the general hospital El Retiro, said he did not believe there would be an epidemic although, "of course, a possibility always exists."
In front of the hospital, some 900 patients were treated in mobile hospitals set up by the U.S. Army.

Money Paid For School Operation

State school subsidy payments received in Pickaway County for December totalled $159,759.24, according to State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson.
This allotment includes operating funds for Circleville, Logan Elm, Teays Valley and Westfall School Districts. In addition, a payment of $4,316.66 was made to the office of the Pickaway County Board of Education.
Payments made to the different districts were: Circleville City $66,920.11; Logan Elm Local $26,506.92; Teays Valley Local $39,068.04 and Westfall Local $27,264.17.

Russian-U.S. Natural Gas Deal Delayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Conclusion of a $40 billion, 25-year pact to import Soviet natural gas into the United States will be delayed until the spring while the Nixon administration reviews whether it is needed, The Washington Post said today.
The pact was to have been signed this month.
The Post quoted high administration sources as saying both the government and the six U.S. companies promoting the prospective pact have cooled on the project.
Among the reasons are doubts that Siberian gas reserves are as large as the Russians claim and the refusal of the Soviet government to permit independent testing of the deposits.
In addition, the Post sources said, there were second thoughts about the high cost of the Soviet gas (about $1.50 per 1,000 cubic feet compared to the current U.S. price of 20 cents per 1,000 cubic feet) and about the national security impact of excessive U.S. reliance on Soviet Union gas.
Six American companies announced Nov. 3 they expected to sign an agreement before the end of 1972 on construction of a pipeline from Siberia to Murmansk on the Barents Sea. Another pipeline was to link Siberia with the Pacific Coast.
Natural gas is abundant in the Soviet Union and scarce in the United States, the world's largest consumer of the fuel. The Soviet Union has enough gas reserves to supply the United States for an estimated 30 years.
The administration hasn't ruled out Soviet gas imports, the Post source said, but cheaper gas may be obtained from Nigeria, Venezuela and other areas.
